Russians Begin Latin American Wooing in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union began wooing Latin American members of the United Nations today in an effort to salvage something from the abortive U.N. Assembly session on the Middle East.

Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan adjourned the 122-nation forum until next Wednesday to give members a chance to "bring about something that we might be able to refer to as a fruitful result."

Israeli officials, meanwhile, sought to allay a furor roused by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's statement that the Gaza Strip, administered by Egypt before the June 5 war, would be incorporated into Israel.

Both the Israeli Defense Ministry and the Israeli delegation to the U.N. issued emphatic denials that the government of Israel had made any decision on the future of the strip.

Informed sources said Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov was urging the Latin Americans to try to draft an acceptable compromise resolution from salvageable parts of the rival Latin American and nonaligned proposals which failed to get the needed two-thirds majority in the assembly Tuesday.

The U.N. members split almost evenly over the nonaligned draft, which demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, and the Latin American proposal coupling a withdrawal demand with a demand that the Arabs and the state of war they have maintained against Israel since 1948. The Russians and the Arabs backed the nonaligned resolution, while the United States and Israel supported the Latin American draft.

Defeat of the nonaligned resolution was another setback for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency assembly session and sent Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to press the Arab case.

There was considerable agreement that any resolution which could be adopted by the assembly would be no more than a general expression of hope for a peaceful resolution of the crisis and that the matter would revert to the Security Council.

Reagan Wages Fiscal War On Democrats

Tax Increase Is Being Impeded By Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Ronald Reagan called on the power of his office and his popularity with the California voters today for help in a fiscal war against Democrats.

A tax increase needed to finance his budget is being delayed in the Legislature.

The freshman Republican governor concedes majority Democrats in the Legislature may be preparing a political trap—a bare-bones tax bill that would force him to ask for another increase during 1968, an election year.

While he steadfastly denies he is a candidate, a growing number of conservative Republicans hope Reagan will be running for president next year, instead of being bogged down at home with another fiscal fight.

In a news conference covered by television stations throughout the state Wednesday, Reagan accused Senate Democrats of breaking a "promise" to give him a tax increase within 24 hours after passing his record budget.

"Five days later we still haven't seen one and there is no increase so he can also pay off a $197-million cash debt left over from the previous Democratic administration and provide for more school aid."

New Regulations Adopted For Hospital Visiting Hours

New visiting hours and regulations governing visitors at Berger Hospital were announced today by James Stambaugh, administrator.

The new rulings were put into effect "to make things easier for visitors," Stambaugh noted that friends and relatives of hospital patients will find the new regulations somewhat "relaxed and more convenient."

One of the major changes is the visiting schedule for the medical and surgical areas. Hours are from 1:30 p. m. until 8:30 p. m. daily including Sundays and holidays.

All visitors are requested to enter the hospital at the front door and obtain cards at the receptionist's desk. For the welfare of the patients, the rules will permit only two visitors at a time.

East Congo Fighting In Progress

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—The government radio reported hard fighting between Congolese forces and foreign mercenaries at Bukavu today and described the situation in the eastern Congo as grave.

The mercenaries were reported Wednesday to have been airlifted to Bukavu and Kisangani (Stanleyville), two major eastern cities. Quoting Congolese sources, the Belgian radio in Brussels said the foreign soldiers had taken a number of important eastern points and that Congolese troops had counter-attacked in Kisangani.

President Joseph D. Mobutu decreed a state of emergency throughout the country Wednesday and complained to the United Nations Security Council of aggression by invaders sent from "Western countries." It was widely believed that the "half of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, kidnaped and taken to Algeria last week.

Sailors Dismissed For Using LSD

WASHINGTON (AP)—At least 28 sailors so far this year have taken LSD "trips" that carried them out of the service, says the Navy.

Uses of drugs other than the hallucinatory LSD by sailors also show an increase through the first five months of this year, the Navy disclosed Wednesday in response to questioning.

The Safety Council said the large number of fatalities reflects an increase in the number of drivers and motor vehicles and the millions of miles motorists traveled.

Rusk Reiterates Pledge To Stand By Vietnamese

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States will stay in Vietnam "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own free choice, has been secured."

He said there is more at stake than self-determination for the Vietnamese — there is even more than security for the other nations of Southeast Asia. "The greater question is whether aggression is to be allowed to succeed, thus opening the way for further aggression," Rusk asserted.

His assessment was given in a speech prepared for the Golden Anniversary convention of Lions International.

Northern Troop Fire Effective

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Vietnamese troops fighting U.S. Marines below the demilitarized zone are using mortar and artillery fire with greater effect than ever before, say Pentagon experts.

The American sources suggested the North Vietnamese may have adopted an American technique — posting artillery's spotters with forward infantry units.

It also was said the North Vietnamese may have better communications than in the past to transmit spotter information back to mortar and gun positions.

American experts said the increased effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire is one of the most significant aspects of the heavy fighting around Con Thien this week.

In the past, the Communist North Vietnamese have aimed most of their mortar and artillery rounds at fixed U.S. positions.

But now, the American experts said, the enemy is hitting at moving U.S. units, firing salvos and then adjusting their ranges and directions as targets shift.

The North Vietnamese have dug in their artillery north of the Ben Hai River which forms the boundary between North and South Vietnam. The river runs through the middle of the six-mile-wide buffer zone, which has not lived up to its official demilitarized status for about a year.

Holiday Toll Stands at 732

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Late reports Wednesday of Independence Day weekend fatalities boosted the holiday traffic toll to 732, within range of the National Safety Council's estimate of 700 to 800.

The statistics broke a record no one wanted to break. The previous high mark for a Fourth of July weekend was 576 during last year's three-day holiday.

A nonholiday tally made by The Associated Press for comparative purposes showed 530 fatalities in a four-day period.

The record for any holiday — 748 — was recorded by The Associated Press during last year's four-day Thanksgiving period.

The Safety Council said the large number of fatalities reflects an increase in the number of drivers and motor vehicles and the millions of miles motorists traveled.

Pennsy-NYC Merger Again Is Delayed

NEW YORK (AP)—The long-planned $6-billion merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads has been delayed again.

A special three-judge federal court restrained the merger until a final decision by the court. The judges said the decision might be made next fall, and it set Sept. 18 for a final hearing on objections to the proposed merger of the two railroads into the Penn Central System.

The court ruling, made public Wednesday, gave all parties opposing the merger until July 17 to amend their complaints. It gave litigants various dates up to Sept. 14 to file and exchange legal papers.

The court said it was wrong for litigants in the case to file suits in different federal courts. The merger, which would be the largest in railroad history, has been delayed by a number of legal maneuvers, and suits are pending in several states.

The merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) in April 19. But the two railroads were blocked last September from putting the consolidation into effect when the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad sought a temporary injunction. The Erie-Lackawanna was joined by eight other railroads, including the Norfolk & Western.

The E-L sought delay until the ICC could decide in what major railroad system it should be included. The ICC, acting on a Supreme Court order, last month ordered the N&W to acquire control of the E-L and two other smaller lines, the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine. The N&W appealed.

Appportioning Proposal OK Asked by Gray

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami urged committee approval today of legislative apportionment proposal for a 117-member House and 39-member Senate.

Gray told the Senate Education, Commerce and Labor Committee that the present General Assembly composed of 99 representatives and 33 senators placed a heavy burden on committees considering legislation.

Another proposed constitutional amendment before the committee would retain the present number of lawmakers with only a 5 per cent population variation in single-member districts. Eight Republican and Democratic senators are cosponsors of that proposal.

Committee Chairman Robin T. Turner R-14 Marion sent the two resolutions to a subcommittee with instructions to draft a single proposal for submission to the legislature. Other subcommittee members with Turner are Sens. Stanley J. Aronoff R-8 Cincinnati, Howard C. Cook R-1 Toledo and William B. Nye D-28 Akron.

Legislative approval would place an apportionment plan before voters for final determination in the November election. Voters previously rejected two apportionment plans, most recently in the May primary.

Newspaper Economics Probe Nears

Senate Antitrust Subcommittee Hearings To Open

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate antitrust subcommittee will open hearings next week that seem likely to become the first in-depth congressional study of newspaper business economics.

The hearings will center on a bill to permit an antitrust exemption for mergers or joint business and commercial operations of newspapers, both dailies and weeklies, in order to save "failing newspapers."

Subcommittee aides report being flooded with requests to testify and with material taking strong stands for and against the bill. Some objections have been directed to wording of the measure rather than its basic purpose.

Labor unions were listed as leading the opposition. Newspaper publishers were described as split, with the strongest support from multiple-paper operators and with owners of suburban papers among the bill's chief foes.

The hearings begin Wednesday. Nine additional days of hearings have been scheduled in July and six or seven more are planned in August. Further hearings are expected in November or December.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., on March 16 with 14 other senators — 7 Democrats and 7 Republicans — as co-sponsors. It's called the "Failing Newspaper Act."

It stems from an antitrust suit brought by the Justice Department in 1965 against a 1941 arrangement by two Tucson, Ariz., daily newspapers, the Citizen and the Star, under which a single company was created to conduct their printing, advertising, circulation and business operations.

Independent news and editorial staffs have been maintained by the two newspapers.

Hayden's bill provides that if a newspaper is failing, it may merge with another newspaper or enter into arrangements for certain joint operations without violating antitrust laws.

McNamara Faces Heavy Schedule

SAIGON (AP)—The chief issues discussed during Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to Saigon this weekend are expected to be more U. S. troops for the war, what to do about the Communist threat in the northern part of the country, the pacification program, the South Vietnamese army and U. S. aid.

Indications are that McNamara is planning a more searching review than he has made on some of his past trips. The U. S. Command is preparing to fight for plans it considers vital to military victory.

Here is how the major issues shape up:

Troop strength—This is the most widely publicized reason for McNamara's trip. Because of heavy North Vietnamese infiltration, U. S. commanders here want a major boost in manpower above the currently authorized 470,000 men. Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. commander, wants up to 200,000 more men than the 466,000 now in Vietnam.

Washington appears ready to boost the limit, possibly to around 550,000. But the Johnson administration is believed concerned because a larger increase will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and impos-

Buckeye Lake Dance Hall Is Fire Victim

BUCKEYE LAKE, Ohio (AP)—Tongue-like flames whipped upward from a boat dock and quickly spread to a huge amusement center at Buckeye Lake Park Wednesday night, creating a fiery spectacle for summer sightseers.

The flames, which brought out five fire departments from the Licking County lakeshore community and the surrounding area, made a near shambles of Park Terrace, a wooden three-story dance hall and restaurant.

No damage estimate was immediately available. Park Terrace, located on the waterfront, is just about 100 feet west of the site of the old Lake Breeze Hotel, which burned to the ground last year.

Buckeye Lake Fire Chief George Braden said the cause of the fire, whose ruins were still smoldering early today, was not immediately determined. It started, however, in the docks, he added.

Witnesses told newsmen the flames at first appeared harmless, but quickly spread through the docks and lapped up onto the third floor dance hall which protruded over the sidewalk along the waterfront.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 750 delegates of the Ohio 4-H Club organization began gathering at Ohio State University today for sessions to last through Sunday.

The sessions were arranged to give 4-H Club members a better understanding of citizenship responsibilities, through a series of lectures and seminars. They will visit a series of OSU departments to get a better idea of vocational training opportunities available.

Government Orders AT&T Profit Curb

FCC Says It Must Hold Interstate Operations Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has ordered giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to curb profits on part of its operations and to slash its interstate rates $120 million a year.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered AT&T Wednesday to operate its interstate and foreign operations—which account for about 25 per cent of the company's overall revenues—within a profit range of 7 to 7.5 per cent.

The commission in a unanimous 107-page order also directed the company to submit by Sept. 1 a plan for reducing interstate rates by $120 million a year. The plan is to become effective 30 days later.

AT&T called the FCC order "most disappointing. If allowed to stand for the long pull, this restriction on our earning prospects would inevitably slow down our effort to provide constantly more and better communications service to the public."

AT&T sits atop the corporate structure that includes the Bell System, operator of most of the nation's telephone service.

The FCC recalled that before 1964 it permitted AT&T to maintain interstate earnings at the 7.5 per cent level. In the spring of 1965 when profits inched past 8 per cent, the commission urged AT&T to cut its rates.

This resulted in lowered rates for long distance telephone calls in the evening.

But despite these rate reductions put into effect in late 1965, Bell System profits continued to rise. Last year, according to FCC figures, ST&T interstate earnings were 8.5 per cent.

In specifying that the Bell System by Sept. 1 must submit a plan to reduce rates by $120 million—about 3 per cent of its interstate earnings—the FCC did not say how the reduction is to be accomplished.

Headache Remedy Claims Under Fire by Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission says advertising about the benefits of various headache remedies must be halted unless the advertiser can prove a significant difference exists in its individual brand.

The commission implied the public is likely to swallow claims that one type of pain reliever works faster or is stronger even though, said the FTC,

Assessment Of Damage Unavailable

SAIGON (AP)—High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Shau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U. S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and this morning against A Shau, due west of the big U. S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies to most of the major Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam, the sector where U. S. forces have recently been under heaviest attack.

The heavy strikes on the jungled valley were ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area in the past few days caused several landslides in areas where heavy rains had loosened embankments. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U. S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The busiest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when seven raids were mounted.

Sporadic ground action was reported Wednesday, but the U. S. Command said 124 Communist soldiers were killed.

Marines and North Vietnamese gunners dueled all today, during heavy artillery across the demilitarized zone. Two

It stems from an antitrust suit brought by the Justice Department in 1965 against a 1941 arrangement by two Tucson, Ariz., daily newspapers, the Citizen and the Star, under which a single company was created to conduct their printing, advertising, circulation and business operations.

Independent news and editorial staffs have been maintained by the two newspapers.

Hayden's bill provides that if a newspaper is failing, it may merge with another newspaper or enter into arrangements with certain joint operations without violating antitrust laws.

Apportioning Proposal OK Asked by Gray

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami urged committee approval today of legislative apportionment proposal for a 117-member House and 39-member Senate.

Gray told the Senate Education, Commerce and Labor Committee that the present General Assembly composed of 99 representatives and 33 senators placed a heavy burden on committees considering legislation.

Another proposed constitutional amendment before the committee would retain the present number of lawmakers with only a 5 per cent population variation in single-member districts.

Eight Republican and Democratic senators are cosponsors of that proposal. Committee Chairman Robin T. Turner R-14 Marion sent the two resolutions to a subcommittee with instructions to draft a single proposal for submission to the legislature. Other subcommittee members with Turner are Sens. Stanley J. Aronoff R-8 Cincinnati, Howard C. Cook R-1 Toledo and William B. Nye D-28 Akron.

Legislative approval would place an apportionment plan before voters for final determination in the November election. Voters previously rejected two apportionment plans, most recently in the May primary.

McNamara Faces Heavy Schedule

SAIGON (AP) — The chief issues discussed during Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to Saigon this weekend are expected to be more U.S. troops for the war, what to do about the Communist threat in the northern part of the country, the pacification program, the South Vietnamese army and U.S. aid.

Indications are that McNamara is planning a more searching review than he has made on some of his past trips. The U.S. Command is preparing to fight for plans it considers vital to military victory.

Here is how the major issues shape up:

Troop strength—This is the most widely publicized reason for McNamara's trip. Because of heavy North Vietnamese infiltration, U.S. commanders here want a major boost in manpower above the currently authorized 470,000 men. Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, wants up to 200,000 more men than the 466,000 now in Vietnam.

Washington appears ready to boost the limit, possibly to around 550,000. But the Johnson administration is believed concerned because a larger increase will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and imposing a terrific strain on the inflation-ridden Vietnamese economy and the hard-pressed U.S. Asian supply line.

The war in the north—U.S. Marines continue to take the heaviest casualties of any force in the country as they man positions below the demilitarized zone. U.S. bombers have not been able to silence the heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire that has been responsible for most of the 8,000 U.S. casualties in the area so far this year. Some officers say the southern half of the demilitarized zone should be taken or that a sea-

Buckeye Lake Dance Hall Is Fire Victim

BUCKEYE LAKE, Ohio (AP) — Tongue-like flames whipped upward from a boat dock and quickly spread to a huge amusement center at Buckeye Lake Park Wednesday night, creating a fiery spectacle for summer sightseers.

The flames, which brought out five fire departments from the Licking County lakeshore community and the surrounding area, made a near shambles of Park Terrace, a wooden three-story dance hall and restaurant.

No damage estimate was immediately available.

Park Terrace, located on the waterfront, is just about 100 feet west of the site of the old Lake Breeze Hotel, which burned to the ground last year.

Buckeye Lake Fire Chief George Braden said the cause of the fire, whose ruins were still smoldering early today, was not immediately determined. It started, however, in the docks, he added.

Witnesses told newsmen the flames at first appeared harmless, but quickly spread through the docks and lapped up onto the third floor dance hall which protruded over the sidewalk along the waterfront.

750 4-H Club Delegates Begin OSU Sessions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 750 delegates of the Ohio 4-H Club organization began gathering at Ohio State University today for sessions to last through Sunday.

Delegates, both boys and girls, are staying at the university dormitories during the period. The sessions were arranged to give 4-H Club members a better understanding of citizenship responsibilities, through a series of lectures and seminars. They will visit a series of OSU departments to get a better idea of vocational training opportunities available.

Assessment Of Damage Unavailable

SAIGON (AP) — High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Shau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and this morning against A Shau, due west of the big U.S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies to most of the major Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam, the sector where U.S. forces have recently been under heaviest attack.

The heavy strikes on the jungled valley were ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area in the past few days caused several landslides in areas where heavy rains had loosened embankments. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The busiest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when seven raids were mounted.

Sporadic ground action was reported Wednesday, but the U.S. Command said 124 Communist soldiers were killed.

Go-Going Way Through College

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Slinging hash and scrubbing floors are out for coeds who work their way through college. Go-go dancing is in.

"The way I rationalize it is by saying it's not any worse than dancing on a beach," said a coed go-go girl.

The girls are go-going through school at $3 and $4 an hour. At a Madison discotheque, a go-go coed, Sue Huntington of Whitefish Bay, Wis., said, "I hate it when it's not crowded here. You get no response. It's nice when you get up there and they smile. Eye contact is really nice."

Sue, a 20-year-old junior at the University of Wisconsin, wants to be a commercial artist.

Man Found Slain In Car Back Seat

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Frank Parker, 33, a city sanitation employee, was found slain in the back seat of his car Wednesday night at the intersection of Brian Street and Niles Road.

Police said they had not yet determined whether Parker had been stabbed or shot. They said he had a gaping chest wound.

Headache Remedy Claims Under Fire by Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says advertising about the benefits of various headache remedies must be halted unless the advertiser can prove a significant difference exists in its individual brand.

Control yourself, the commission in effect told manufacturers of pain relievers Wednesday in proposing a new rule aimed at what it called "unfair and deceptive" advertising practices.

The FTC said advertisers should make claims of faster, stronger or longer-lasting analgesic a thing of the past unless they can prove a significant difference does exist in the individual brand.

Man Charged With Assault

A Laurelville man was fined a total of $300 on five separate counts in Circleville Municipal Court by Judge Sterling Lamb.

William H. Schwalbach, 29, Route 2, Laurelville, received the fine, a jail sentence and probation period. He was charged with three counts of assault and battery, one of disorderly conduct and one of resisting arrest.

He was fined $75 for each of the three assault accusations on William Fowler and arresting officers Larry Pontious and Arthur Finley. In addition he received six-month concurrent sentences in the county jail on each count, but four months of each was suspended. He was placed on probation for a total of nine years.

On the charge of disorderly conduct, Schwalbach was fined $25 and on the charge of resisting arrest a $50 fine was levied.

AME Pastor Attends Dayton District Meet

Mary Lou Henderson, pastor of St. Paul AME Church, has returned home after attending the Dayton District Conference in Rodger Chapel AME Church, Washington C. H.

The well attended conference was welcomed by the City Manager, Robert M. Clancy and the Rev. N. M. Rompel, of Grace Methodist Church.

Mrs. Henderson spent Friday and Saturday in the home of the Bayless family in Frankfort, before coming home.

Bernard Beck, Ph.D., assistant professor of sociology at Northwestern University, said in an interview that these youths gather at places where they are unknown with the avowed purpose of breaking out of their ordinary routine.

"A lot of the public's concern is that college students were once looked upon as special kinds of people who were expected to act in a special way," Beck said.

"All that is changing," he added. "Teen-agers are coming to regard themselves as ordinary people and they want the same autonomy and freedom that is allowed others."

Although he said there is considerable difference in scale, he compared the student uprisings with the antics of some convention delegates who block traffic and play practical jokes on spectators, usually without interference from the police.

"What these kids are doing is like an outdoor sport for them," Beck said. "But they know the police are keeping a sharper eye on them. Because the police are more watchful and intervene sooner, resentment is triggered once that intervention occurs."

Beck said permanent residents in such resort areas as Lake Geneva, Wis., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the youths who flock there for vacations have completely different viewpoints on what constitutes "having fun."

He said some "frightening overtones" of the youthful escapades might be avoided if there were a closer meeting of minds or if special resort areas were established to cater to the special desires of young people.

Live Rocket Found in Lake

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A live rocket was found on the bottom of Lake Erie today by Coast Guardsmen dragging for wreckage of a plane that crashed Saturday off Camp Perry.

Divers brought the rocket up but let it drop quickly when it was found that they had hooked a live projectile.

A Navy underwater demolition team was called to dispose of the nearly two-foot-long rocket.

Army authorities at Camp Perry declined comment, but it was presumed the projectile had been fired during tests there or at the former Erie Ordnance Depot proving grounds nearby.

She replaces Mrs. Opal Parmer on the county school staff.

Mrs. Sims' credentials include a principal's certificate.

Assessment

Leathernecks were killed and three wounded when North Vietnamese troops ambushed a Marine squad on patrol. Seven other Marines were wounded by artillery barrages.

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., Marine commander in Vietnam, said the Marines have had 95 men killed and 211 wounded in the demilitarized zone area since fighting broke out Sunday north of Con Thien.

According to day-to-day announcements since Sunday, the Marine casualties totaled 106 killed, 321 wounded and six missing.

The air war against North Vietnam continued unabated with 107 missions flown and two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs lost to ground fire, making 597 U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North. One helicopter was also shot down over South Vietnam.

The two Thunderchief pilots were missing.

Major strikes were directed at the rail lines leading north from Hanoi to Red China, and Air Force pilots reported shooting up 23 boxcars in yards along the line running northeast from the capital.

Navy pilots from the carriers Intrepid and Bon Homme Richard hit an underground fuel dump 13 miles above Haiphong.

It evidently was a major complex. The smoke from the raid rose 13,000 feet and was visible aboard the carriers 65 miles away in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air Force and Marine pilots also made a major effort against the Communist artillery positions which have been causing heavy casualties to the Marines below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty reported issued by U.S. Command reported a decline in American deaths but the reporting period, which ended last Saturday, did not include the hard fighting since then along the demilitarized zone.

6889 Happy Customers, And Seven Who Hate Them

NEW YORK (AP) — "Through these portals have passed 6,889 happy clients—and 7 who hate us."

The seven "didn't listen to me and tried to do things their way," said Milan J. Greer, pointing at the numbers on his sign. "They were wrong."

The sign hangs in Greer's Fabulous Felines shop in midtown Manhattan, and the numbers change every time he sells another kitten.

Greer, 45, unlike many pet dealers, breeds and sells only pedigree cats. Usually he has about 125 cats on hand in his shop.

"I throw out about 25 per cent of my potential customers," Greer says. "Most of them are the kind that come in and gurgles all over the cats. These people are sick. They are looking for a child substitute. This is wrong. If you sold them a cat, it would become neurotic."

"Choosing a cat that is suited to your personality is tremendously important. There are certain types of cat personalities which are best for children, and other types for adults."

Bike Mishaps Injure Two

Two bicycle mishaps topped the list of nine emergency cases treated at Berger Hospital Wednesday.

Monty Brown, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown, Route 1, Stoutsville, wrecked his bicycle and lacerated the inner knee area of his leg.

Todd Pontious, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pontious, Route 1, received abrasions to his right heel when it was caught in a bicycle wheel.

Leonard Crabtree, 56, Route 1, Williamsport, lacerated the top of his right hand when he hit it against a door.

Thomas Lowery, 27, hit his hand with a sledge hammer while working at Container Corp.

Keith James, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald James, Williamsport, injured the index finger of his right hand playing baseball.

Kathy Hedges, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hedges, Swackhammer Road, fell down basement steps at home and received contusions to her forehead.

Tammy Hoffman, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoffman, 475 E. Main St. ran a nail into her left foot.

Steve Nelson, 16, 560 Ridgewood Drive, injured his right arm on a hay hook.

Ohio Legislature

Lawmakers Hammer Out Tax Increase Details

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers begin hammering at details of proposed tax increases and legislative reapportionment today, hoping to clear the air on the two major obstacles to final adjournment.

Some still held hope they could call it quits and go home in August but others doubted the assembly could move with such speed and contended a summer recess is more likely.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, called for a second hearing this afternoon on the administration's $252 million omnibus tax bill to raise more funds for education.

Maloney said that in all probability he will name a subcommittee to consider the wide range of proposed increases and come up with a "homogenized" package. It is expected that the subcommittee will scrap a proposed 1 per cent gross receipts tax under heavy fire from retailers and consumers around the state.

Chairman Walter L. White R-Allen of the House Taxation Committee scheduled the first hearing, meanwhile, on a bill permitting counties to levy up to 5 per cent of utility bills. Revenue from that tax would help counties raise funds for their matching share of higher welfare benefits provided in the administration's budget bill.

Rep. Albert H. Sealy R-84 Dayton, chairman of a "blue ribbon" House committee named to draft legislation revising local tax structures, split his 14-member group into five subcommittees and said they would meet at various times today and Friday.

Purpose of the committee is to revise local taxation to take some of the burden off real estate and personal property, found by the Ohio Tax Study Commission to be carrying more than their share of the load.

Most frequently mentioned at the committee's first meeting Wednesday was a county income tax that would be redistributed under a still undetermined formula to townships and municipalities.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess cautioned that any "mandated" reduction in real or personal property taxes will have to be accompanied by mandated new tax. This could mean that the legislature, in effect, might levy income taxes for the counties but let them collect it.

In other developments, Sen. Robin Turner R-14 said his Elections, Commerce, and Labor Committee would hear testimony today on two reapportionment resolutions.

During an hour-long session Wednesday, the House passed seven bills without major opposition. The Senate approved three and postponed action on a fourth bill.

Six of the House bills were sent to the Senate and action on the seventh completed its enactment. It requires school boards to adopt annual salary schedules for non-teaching employees.

Other House bills create an antitrust division in the attorney general's office, upgrade standards for barbers and members of the Board of Barber Examiners, and conform requirements for independent candidates for the legislature with those for state senators and congressmen. The House changed the barber bill to retain the present minimum education requirement at the eighth grade instead of the 10th as proposed in the bill originally.

Lopsided votes also sent to the Senate bills to require motor vehicle licenses for agricultural trailers which travel at speeds of more than 25 miles an hour and to make issue of black lines on the backs of ballots permissive with boards of election.

The Senate passed three bills and after an hour-long caucus put off action on a bill to increase benefits to widows and dependents in the state police and firemen's pension fund.

Senators voted 20-0 to create a division of criminology in the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. Also approved in the upper chamber were House bills allowing townships to purchase liability insurance for volunteer firemen and transferring 24.8 acres of Ohio University land in Athens to Sheltering Arms Hospital Foundation, Inc., for the site of a proposed new hospital.

Bernard Beck, Ph.D., assistant professor of sociology at Northwestern University, said in an interview that these youths gather at places where they are unknown with the avowed purpose of breaking out of their ordinary routine.

"A lot of the public's concern is that college students were once looked upon as special kinds of people who were expected to act in a special way," Beck said.

"All that is changing," he added. "Teen-agers are coming to regard themselves as ordinary people and they want the same autonomy and freedom that is allowed others."

Although he said there is considerable difference in scale, he compared the student uprisings with the antics of some convention delegates who block traffic and play practical jokes on spectators, usually without interference from the police.

"What these kids are doing is like an outdoor sport for them," Beck said. "But they know the police are keeping a sharper eye on them. Because the police are more watchful and intervene sooner, resentment is triggered once that intervention occurs."

Beck said permanent residents in such resort areas as Lake Geneva, Wis., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the youths who flock there for vacations have completely different viewpoints on what constitutes "having fun."

He said some "frightening overtones" of the youthful escapades might be avoided if there were a closer meeting of minds or if special resort areas were established to cater to the special desires of young people.

Live Rocket Found in Lake

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A live rocket was found on the bottom of Lake Erie today by Coast Guardsmen dragging for wreckage of a plane that crashed Saturday off Camp Perry.

Divers brought the rocket up but let it drop quickly when it was found that they had hooked a live projectile.

A Navy underwater demolition team was called to dispose of the nearly two-foot-long rocket.

Army authorities at Camp Perry declined comment, but it was presumed the projectile had been fired during tests there or at the former Erie Ordnance Depot proving grounds nearby.

Leathernecks were killed and three wounded when North Vietnamese troops ambushed a Marine squad on patrol. Seven other Marines were wounded by artillery barrages.

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., Marine commander in Vietnam, said the Marines have had 95 men killed and 211 wounded in the demilitarized zone area since fighting broke out Sunday north of Con Thien.

According to day-to-day announcements since Sunday, the Marine casualties totaled 106 killed, 321 wounded and six missing.

The air war against North Vietnam continued unabated with 107 missions flown and two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs lost to ground fire, making 597 U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North. One helicopter was also shot down over South Vietnam.

The two Thunderchief pilots were missing.

Major strikes were directed at the rail lines leading north from Hanoi to Red China, and Air Force pilots reported shooting up 23 boxcars in yards along the line running northeast from the capital.

Navy pilots from the carriers Intrepid and Bon Homme Richard hit an underground fuel dump 13 miles above Haiphong.

It evidently was a major complex. The smoke from the raid rose 13,000 feet and was visible above the carriers 65 miles away in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air Force and Marine pilots also made a major effort against the Communist artillery positions which have been causing heavy casualties to the Marines below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty reported issued by U.S. Command reported a decline in American deaths but the reporting period, which ended last Saturday, did not include the hard fighting since then along the demilitarized zone.

6,889 Happy Customers, And Seven Who Hate Them

NEW YORK (AP) — "Through these portals have passed 6,889 happy clients—and 7 who hate us."

The seven "didn't listen to me and tried to do things their way," said Milan J. Greer, pointing at the numbers on his sign. "They were wrong."

The sign hangs in Greer's Fabulous Felines shop in midtown Manhattan, and the numbers change every time he sells another kitten.

Greer, 45, unlike many pet dealers, breeds and sells only pedigree cats. Usually he has about 125 cats on hand in his shop.

"I throw out about 25 per cent of my potential customers," Greer says. "Most of them are the kind that come in and gurgles all over the cats. These people are sick. They are looking for a child substitute. This is wrong. If you sold them a cat, it would become neurotic."

"Choosing a cat that is suited to your personality is tremendously important. There are certain types of cat personalities which are best for children, and other types for adults."

Bike Mishaps Injure Two

Two bicycle mishaps topped the list of nine emergency cases treated at Berger Hospital Wednesday.

Monty Brown, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown, Route 1, Stoutsville, wrecked his bicycle and lacerated the inner knee area of his leg.

Todd Pontious, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pontious, Route 1, received abrasions to his right heel when it was caught in a bicycle wheel.

Leonard Crabtree, 56, Route 1, Williamsport, lacerated the top of his right hand when he hit it against a door.

Thomas Lowery, 27, hit his hand with a sledge hammer while working at Container Corp. Keith James, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald James, Williamsport, injured the index finger of his right hand playing baseball.

Kathy Hedges, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hedges, Swackhammer Road, fell down basement steps at home and received contusions to her forehead.

Tammy Hoffman, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoffman, 475 E. Main St., ran a nail into her left foot.

Steve Nelson, 16, 560 Ridgewood Drive, injured his right arm on a hay hook.

Ohio Legislature

Lawmakers Hammer Out Tax Increase Details

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers begin hammering at details of proposed tax increases and legislative reapportionment today, hoping to clear the air on the two major obstacles to final adjournment.

Some still held hope they could call it quits and go home in August but others doubted the assembly could move with such speed and contended a summer recess is more likely.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, called for a second hearing this afternoon on the administration's $252 million omnibus tax bill to raise more funds for education.

Maloney said that in all probability he will name a subcommittee to consider the wide range of proposed increases and come up with a "homogenized" package. It is expected that the subcommittee will scrap a proposed 1 per cent gross receipts tax under heavy fire from retailers and consumers around the state.

Chairman Walter L. White R-Allen of the House Taxation Committee scheduled the first hearing, meanwhile, on a bill permitting counties to levy up to 5 per cent of utility bills. Revenue from that tax would help counties raise funds for their matching share of higher welfare benefits provided in the administration's budget bill.

Rep. Albert H. Sealy R-84 Dayton, chairman of a "blue ribbon" House committee named to draft legislation revising local tax structures, split his 14-member group into five subcommittees and said they would meet at various times today and Friday.

Purpose of the committee is to revise local taxation to take some of the burden off real estate and personal property, found by the Ohio Tax Study Commission to be carrying more than their share of the load.

Most frequently mentioned at the committee's first meeting Wednesday was a county income tax that would be redistributed under a still undetermined formula to townships and municipalities.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess cautioned that any "mandated" reduction in real or personal property taxes will borne invasion of the north should be carried out to encircle and destroy the Red guns.

Pacification—The latest in an eight-year series of pacification programs to win the loyalty of the countryside looked promising when it finally got off the ground in late February. However, government battalions assigned to protect the pacification teams have often proved ineffective. Some 700 pacification workers have been killed or wounded, and whole teams have deserted. Corruption and devious political maneuvering have been reported in some areas. The program is clearly sagging.

The South Vietnamese Army—Despite billions in aid and thousands of U. S. advisers, the Saigon government's troops with only a few notable exceptions have not been built into an effective, aggressive, dedicated military machine. Since American divisions were sent to Vietnam, Saigon's soldiers have been doing less and less fighting and launching fewer and fewer operations aimed at showdown battles with the enemy.

American aid—Reports to Washington by those outside the aid chain of command but charged with monitoring it remain pessimistic. The reports say only a small percentage of the annual $700 million flowing into the program will reach the peasants whose loyalty is the key to victory or defeat in Vietnam. U.S. sources have said no real improvement in the situation is possible unless some sort of control is maintained over funds and commodities once they pass into Vietnamese channels.

Watercraft Division Ends Dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Watercraft has settled a dispute with the U. S. Coast Guard on channel markers at West Harbor in Lake Erie by placing its own markers.

Dredging of the channel was completed recently at a cost of more than $10,000 financed by the Division of Watercraft's parent, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Paul Sarossy, chief of the division, explained that the Coast Guard has jurisdiction in Lake Erie waters but would not place buoys in the channel until other improvements are made by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. These are not scheduled until 1969.

The Coast Guard frowns on states placing their own markers, but after much coaxing and pressure from several sides it relented, Sarossy said.

Sarossy said 11 buoys were placed along with signs limiting the speed of watercraft to 6 m.p.h.

Church Dialogue Set for Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Top-level Lutheran - Catholic talks, marking this year's 450th anniversary of the Reformation, are set for Columbus during the 1967-1968 academic year.

Columbus is one of 14 major American cities with strong Catholic and Lutheran theological resources selected for the dialogues, which are expected to begin in the fall. Scholars of both faiths will take part in the discussions.

In a joint statement, the Most Rev. John J. Carberry of Columbus, and Dr. Melvin H. Lundeen of New York, described the purpose of the talks as an effort to "better understand one another."

American Liquor Laws Look Like Crazy Quilt

CHICAGO (AP) — A fellow who goes out to get a drink in a strange town is apt to get confused—and maybe not a drink.

The reason, an Associated Press survey shows, is that the United States is covered by a crazy quilt of liquor laws.

Take, for example, Texas.

Texas laws are pretty complex, based on local option, even by precincts.

For instance: Part of Dallas sells beer over the bar and liquor in package stores, while in other parts of Dallas you can't buy anything to drink. Some counties or parts of counties can sell beer at the bar, but no package stores are allowed, and some have package stores but no beer bars.

You can't drink standing up in a club, hotel cocktail lounge, restaurant or beer parlor in Maine. But the statutes do permit taverns for men only in which everyone must drink standing up at a bar.

Indiana's Legislature decided this year to allow a licensed woman bartender to work on the serving side of the bar, a function that had been restricted to a female owner or wife of an owner. But an unlicensed woman is not permitted to sit on the drinking side of the bar.

Liquor frequently has been on the minds of state lawmakers since repeal, in 1933, put an end to national prohibition of the manufacture and sale of such spirits. Mississippi adopted a local-option liquor law last year, becoming the last state to shift from dry to wet.

Thus aridity has been ended on a nationwide or statewide scale. But there still are many dry pockets.

Look, for instance, at Kentucky, a state long identified with bourbon. Of its 120 counties, 86 are completely dry, 29 are wet, and 8 are divided, i.e., wet cities in dry counties.

Down there dry means no sales of alcoholic beverages are allowed. But in many places around the country the thirsty man can get beer but no strong ger stuff across the bar.

In Georgia, only 6 counties of 159, including Fulton, with Atlanta, actually have legalized the sale of liquor by the drink.

Only eight of Tennessee's 95 counties have legalized liquor to the extent of allowing it to be sold at package stores.

A study made in 1962 by the Distilled Spirits Institute showed: 15 states had some liquorless counties and, for the United States as a whole, 749 counties forbade liquor and 2,329 did not.

The switching from dry to wet or vice versa is done in local-option elections. They vary in scope from a residential neighborhood and a precinct to town, township and county. And nine states make no provision for them at all.

Regulations in that sphere, like those in the others, are a potpourri.

Bottled liquor is sold in state-owned stores in 16 states and in private stores in the others. Sales are limited to package goods only in North Carolina, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The closest the states come to uniformity is on election days, when liquor surveyors shut up shop, at least during polling hours, in all but five states.

The Legislature in North Carolina, which bars liquor by the drink, approved legislation this year to legalize the old custom of "brownbaggging." Thus, a man can buy a bottle in a state-controlled store in any one of the 68 wet counties and take it to a restaurant, where he can buy the complementary ice and mix. This sort of thing is out, however, in 32 dry counties. He also can brownbag it in Utah, another state that won't allow

Young Woman Sets Self Afire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman drenched herself with gasoline Tuesday and set herself afire, police said.

She was listed in critical condition today in Los Angeles General Hospital with third-degree burns.

The woman was tentatively identified from a driver's license and library card as Nancy L. Moore, 24, Twin Falls, Idaho. The library card was from Portland, Ore.

Police quoted attendants at a self-service station northwest of downtown Los Angeles as saying they heard a scream and saw the woman ablaze inside a small cashier's booth on a center island of the service station.

A religious picture was found with the woman inside the small building, officers said.

Texas is another brownbag state. At a late count, about 115 of the 254 counties were totally dry. In the wet oasis, store-bought liquor can be conveyed in a paper sack to a restaurant or night club. Public bars sell only beer and light wine. Private clubs began handling mixed drinks in recent years.

Tourists can become instant members in some of them.

Gov. John B. Connally of Texas recommended the sale of mixed drinks, but the bill was shunted aside in the Legislature.

This year West Virginia made the first major change in its liquor laws in a generation. Under the new provisions, private clubs are licensed by the state to serve liquor to dues-paying members and guests. The statute is broad enough to permit hotels to set aside space for such clubs.

A new law in Colorado, enacted with an eye on tourists and conventioners, enables hotels and restaurants to buy an extra $200 license which permits them to sell liquor until midnight on Sunday. Other bars must close at 8 p.m.

The Wyoming Legislature gave permission to bars to stay open from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays.

A perennial bill to permit limited Sunday sales in Maine went down to defeat. But the Vermont Liquor Control Board decided to allow the sale of drinks on Sunday afternoon and evening. Previously, such service was permitted only with meals.

New York State's legal toleration of drinking by customers as young as 18 has caused considerable friction with its neighbors, especially New Jersey and Connecticut. Law-enforcement officials in the latter states contend their kids get into traffic accidents on the way home.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Watercraft has settled a dispute with the U. S. Coast Guard on channel markers at West Harbor in Lake Erie by placing its own markers.

Dredging of the channel was completed recently at a cost of more than $10,000 financed by the Division of Watercraft's parent, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Paul Sarossy, chief of the division, explained that the Coast Guard has jurisdiction in Lake Erie waters but would not place buoys in the channel until other improvements are made by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. These are not scheduled until 1969.

The Coast Guard frowns on states placing their own markers, but after much coaxing and pressure from several sides it relented, Sarossy said.

Sarossy said 11 buoys were placed along with signs limiting the speed of watercraft to 6 m.p.h.

Church Dialogue Set for Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Top-level Lutheran-Catholic talks, marking this year's 450th anniversary of the Reformation, are set for Columbus during the 1967-1968 academic year.

Columbus is one of 14 major American cities with strong Catholic and Lutheran theological resources selected for the dialogues, which are expected to begin in the fall. Scholars of both faiths will take part in the discussions.

In a joint statement, the Most Rev. John J. Carberry of Columbus, and Dr. Melvin H. Lundeen of New York, described the purpose of the talks as an effort to "better understand one another."

American Liquor Laws Look Like Crazy Quilt

CHICAGO (AP) — A fellow who goes out to get a drink in a strange town is apt to get confused—and maybe not a drink.

The reason, an Associated Press survey shows, is that the United States is covered by a crazy quilt of liquor laws.

Take, for example, Texas. Texas laws are pretty complex, based on local option, even by precincts.

For instance: Part of Dallas sells beer over the bar and liquor in package stores, while in other parts of Dallas you can't buy anything to drink. Some counties or parts of counties can sell beer at the bar, but no package stores are allowed, and

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 6, the 187th day of 1967. There are 178 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1923, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics was formed.

On this date: In 1747, the American naval hero, John Paul Jones, was born.

In 1777, a British force under Gen. John Burgoyne captured Fort Mifflin, Pa., and the British moved on to Philadelphia.

In 1835, U.S. Chief Justice John Marshall died.

In 1837, the Republic of Texas sent an ambassador to Washington.

In 1934, the physical chemist, Marie Curie, died. She and her husband Pierre Curie were the co-discoverers of radium.

In 1944, the main tent of the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus went up in flames at Hartford, Conn., and 168 persons perished.

Ten years ago — The Harry S. Truman Library was dedicated in Independence, Mo.

Five years ago — Writer William Faulkner died in Oxford, Miss., at the age of 64.

One year ago — U.S. jet pilots braved a missile barrage to blast four missile sites and two oil depots in North Vietnam.

some have package stores but no beer bars.

You can't drink standing up in a club, hotel cocktail lounge, restaurant or beer parlor in Maine. But the statutes do permit taverns for men only in which everyone must drink standing up at a bar.

Indiana's Legislature decided this year to allow a licensed woman bartender to work on the serving side of the bar, a function that had been restricted to a female owner or wife of an owner. But an unescorted woman is not permitted to sit on the drinking side of the bar.

Liquor frequently has been on the minds of state lawmakers since repeal, in 1933, put an end to national prohibition of the manufacture and sale of such spirits. Mississippi adopted a local-option liquor law last year, becoming the last state to shift from dry to wet.

Thus aridity has been ended on a nationwide or statewide scale. But there still are many dry pockets.

Look, for instance, at Kentucky, a state long identified with bourbon. Of its 120 counties, 86 are completely dry, 26 are wet, and 8 are divided, i.e., wet cities in dry counties.

Down there dry means no sales of alcoholic beverages are allowed. But in many places around the country the thirsty man can get beer but no strong ger stuff across the bar.

In Georgia, only 6 counties of 159, including Fulton, with Atlanta, actually have legalized the sale of liquor by the drink.

Only eight of Tennessee's 95 counties have legalized liquor to the extent of allowing it to be sold at package stores.

A study made in 1962 by the Distilled Spirits Institute showed: 15 states had some liquorless counties and, for the United States as a whole, 749 counties forbade liquor and 2,329 did not.

The switching from dry to wet or vice versa is done in local-option elections. They vary in scope from a residential neighborhood and a precinct to town, township and county. And nine states make no provision for them at all.

Regulations in that sphere, like those in the others, are a potpourri.

Bottled liquor is sold in state-owned stores in 16 states and in private stores in the others. Sales are limited to package goods only in North Carolina, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The closest the states come to uniformity is on election days, when liquor surveyors shut up shop, at least during polling hours, in all but five states.

The Legislature in North Carolina, which bars liquor by the drink, approved legislation this year to legalize the old custom of "brownbaggging." Thus, a man can buy a bottle in a state-controlled store in any one of the 68 wet counties and take it to a restaurant, where he can buy the complementary ice and mix. This sort of thing is out, however, in 32 dry counties. He also can brownbag it in Utah, another state that won't allow

Young Woman Sets Self Afire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman drenched herself with gasoline Tuesday and set herself afire, police said.

She was listed in critical condition today in Los Angeles General Hospital with third-degree burns.

The woman was tentatively identified from a driver's license and library card as Nancy L. Moore, 24, Twin Falls, Idaho. The library card was from Portland, Ore.

Police quoted attendants at a self-service station northwest of downtown Los Angeles as saying they heard a scream and saw the woman ablaze inside a small cashier's booth on a center island of the service station.

A religious picture was found with the woman inside the small building, officers said.

Texas is another brownbag state. At a late count, about 115 of the 254 counties were totally dry. In the wet oasis, store-bought liquor can be conveyed in a paper sack to a restaurant or night club. Public bars sell only beer and light wine. Private clubs began handling mixed drinks in recent years.

Tourists can become instant members in some of them. Gov. John B. Connally of Texas recommended the sale of mixed drinks, but the bill was shunted aside in the Legislature.

This year West Virginia made the first major change in its liquor laws in a generation. Under the new provisions, private clubs are licensed by the state to serve liquor to dues-paying members and guests. The statute is broad enough to permit hotels to set aside space for such clubs.

A new law in Colorado, enacted with an eye on tourists and conventioners, enables hotels and restaurants to buy an extra $200 license which permits them to sell liquor until midnight on Sunday. Other bars must close at 8 p.m.

The Wyoming Legislature gave permission to bars to stay open from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays.

A perennial bill to permit limited Sunday sales in Maine went down to defeat. But the Vermont Liquor Control Board decided to allow the sale of drinks on Sunday afternoon and evening. Previously, such service was permitted only with meals.

New York State's legal toleration of drinking by customers as young as 18 has caused considerable friction with its neighbors, especially New Jersey and Connecticut. Law-enforcement officials in the latter states contend their kids get into traffic accidents on the way home.

PROBATE COURT NOTICE: All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Guardian, Executrix, and Administrators have filed their accounts in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio:

Conservationists frequently voice criticism of man-made interferences in the natural scheme of things which threaten to destroy wildlife. They serve a good purpose by drawing attention to these intrusions.

"Wise conservation" and "suitable habitat" to insure species threatened by man's thoughtlessness can recover through reproduction will achieve greater results than trying to remove the influence of man from the natural environment, is the essence of Mayfield's advice.

It is good advice. Man is here to stay. Whether the bird and animal kingdoms can survive depends not upon the chance accidents and thoughtless deeds of man, but upon the positive help given feathered and furry creatures in their desperate fight for survival.

Fun To Return

The business of summer vacationing, now at its peak, will subside in a matter of weeks, with a suddenness that will surpass the alacrity with which it started. The pattern varies little from year to year.

In May a few persons take to the roads, the mountains and the water. These are mainly those who have no children in school. In June the tempo of vacationing seems to gain daily, but on July 4 the country goes all out for fun away from the usual haunts and occupations and vacation time has really arrived. From then until Labor Day roads and installations and accommodations really take a beating.

What has greatly boosted vacation business at all resorts are the longer vacations now enjoyed by most Americans. Instead of one or two weeks, vacations now generally range from two weeks to a month. This has contributed more to the increased demand on accommodations in recent years than the population increase.

But already summer has progressed to the point that to many the vacation of 1967 is but a memory, and others are looking forward to a return to the old rut. More people than ever, according to reports, are touring this summer, which means that more than ever will appreciate the old abode more fully in the weeks ahead.

Not the least of the fun of a vacation is returning home to take up where one left off.

All Is Vanity

Because of the vanity of American women, the senioritas in Coimbra, Portugal, don't dare go out alone at night. If they do they are likely to be attacked by men with scissors who cut off their hair and sell it to the wig-makers.

Since the U. S. buys 85 per cent of Portugal's wig output, the final responsibility for the plight of the poor Portuguese damsels rests with the American women who wear the wigs.

Ah, the complexities of international trade.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

A LONG-MARRIED executive, waxing amorous in his declining years, found a complaisant secretary and took to lunching with her in an out-of-the-way restaurant where he knew none of his friends would turn up to spot him. One day, however, the proprietor came up to his table to tell him morosely, "I'm afraid you're going to have to find another eating place where nobody will be around to see you. I'm going into bankruptcy tomorrow."

Riding to work aboard a crowded bus one morning, a young bank clerk came suddenly to life when a beautiful young lady, clad in a tight and revealing costume, came aboard. Just after she had deposited her fare, she lost her balance, and, lurching for a strap, gave our banker an unintentional but reasonably painful whack across the forehead.

Obviously embarrassed, she started to apologize, but the banker cut her short with, "Don't concern yourself, my dear. For what I was just thinking, I deserved it."

The two left the bus together, and disappeared down a side street arm in arm.

When top-comic Sam Levenson was a school teacher in Brooklyn, he once asked a fifth-grader, "Why did you hit Gregory?" The kid answered, "Because he hit me back first."

Speaking of Your Health
By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am very nervous and at times I feel that I will smother because of shortness of breath. I try not to be scared, but every time it happens I go into a panic because I feel that I am having a heart attack.

Several good doctors have assured me that my heart is healthy, but that my nerves are weak. My life is miserable because I can't stop worrying about these attacks. Could I have your opinion?

Mrs. W. J., Indiana

Dear Mrs. J.: I am amazed by the frequency with which I receive letters that are so similar to yours. Let us both examine your problem and see if we can't come to a sensible conclusion. Your doctors have given you a complete physical examination as you indicated in the rest of your letter and found that you are completely healthy.

This important information apparently did you no good for the simple reason that their assurance was not enough to overcome your fears. It is obvious to you by now that your nervousness and emotional tension and neurotic tendencies are responsible for the strange sensation of smothering and palpitations.

The fact that nothing dangerous has happened during these attacks has brought you no comfort. You are terrified before, during and after an attack.

Is it not completely clear to you that what you now need is direction, support and understanding that can only be given to you by a trained psychiatrist or psychologist?

You have consulted other doctors freely. Why not consult one of these specialists who is trained in the technique of solving and treating problems like yours.

Our teenage daughter is pregnant and unwed. I need hardly elaborate on the total unhappiness it has caused our entire family. The fact that the children will be married to dignify the situation brings us little or no happiness. Their schooling, their plans and their lives are now changed by this unhappy circumstance. Where did we fail and how can other parents benefit from our distress?

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Connecticut

Dear Mr. and Mrs. R.: In a recent article in the American Journal of Public Health, Dr. Ursula Anderson thoroughly inspects the tremendous problem of the increased number of teen-age unwed mothers.

She said, "First, what is the cause of this increase and what can be done to reverse the trend? In looking for a reason, one is struck by the fact that the present teen-ager was born in the immediate postwar period in which communications media expanded tremendously. Could this alarming problem be due to the influence of television... that satiates the viewers with orgies of sex and crime?"

The automobile, drive-in movies and suggestive, almost pornographic books are also accused.

I believe these are the well-

Laff-A-Day

"Here it is—a cure for the common cold—and, just because of an insignificant little side effect, they won't let me market it."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A LONG-MARRIED executive, waxing amorous in his declining years, found a complaisant secretary and took to lunching with her in an out-of-the-way restaurant where he knew none of his friends would turn up to spot him. One day, however, the proprietor came up to his table to tell him morosely, "I'm afraid you're going to have to find another eating place where nobody will be around to see you. I'm going into bankruptcy tomorrow."

Riding to work aboard a crowded bus one morning, a young bank clerk came suddenly to life when a beautiful young lady, clad in a tight and revealing costume, came aboard. Just after she had deposited her fare, she lost her balance, and lurching for a strap, gave our banker an unintentional but reasonably painful whack across the forehead. Obviously embarrassed, she started to apologize, but the banker cut her short with, "Don't concern yourself, my dear. For what I was just thinking, I deserved it."

The two left the bus together, and disappeared down a side street arm in arm.

When top-comic Sam Levenson was a school teacher in Brooklyn, he once asked a fifth-grader, "Why did you hit Gregory?" The kid answered, "Because he hit me back first."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
The Circleville Art League was sponsoring an exhibit of historical interest at the Pickaway County Historical Society display rooms on Main St.

Eight Pickaway County men, all Ohio Air National Guardsmen who were called to duty during the Berlin crisis, were stationed in France.

The Boy Scouts from the EUB Church returned from a one-week campout at Camp Lazarus.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Cpl. Fred Heeter of Circleville was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service while stationed in Korea.

Ted Lewis was reported "feeling better" following an attack of ulcers suffered after performing for a benefit in Roundtown.

The county fed prisoners at the jail 1,346 meals which cost 33 cents each during the month of June.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am very nervous and at times I feel that I will smother because of shortness of breath. I try not to be scared, but every time it happens I go into a panic because I feel that I am having a heart attack.

Several good doctors have assured me that my heart is healthy, but that my nerves are weak. My life is miserable because I can't stop worrying about these attacks. Could I have any opinion?

Mrs. W. J., Indiana
Dear Mrs. J.: I am amazed by the frequency with which I receive letters that are so similar to yours. Let us both examine your problem and see if we can't come to a sensible conclusion. Your doctors have given you a complete physical examination as you indicated in the rest of your letter and found that you are completely healthy.

This important information apparently did you no good for the simple reason that their assurance was not enough to overcome your fears. It is obvious to you by now that your nervousness and emotional tension and neurotic tendencies are responsible for the strange sensation of smothering and palpitations.

The fact that nothing dangerous has happened during these attacks has brought you no comfort. You are terrified before, during and after an attack.

Is it not completely clear to you that what you now need is direction, support and understanding that can only be given to you by a trained psychiatrist or psychologist?

You have consulted other doctors freely. Why not consult one of these specialists who is trained in the technique of solving and treating problems like yours.

Our teenage daughter is pregnant and unwed. I need hardly elaborate on the total unhappiness it has caused our entire family. The fact that the children will be married to dignify the situation brings us little or no happiness. Their schooling, their plans and their lives are now changed by this unhappy circumstance. Where did we fail and how can other parents benefit from our distress?

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Connecticut
Dear Mr. and Mrs. R.: In a recent article in the American Journal of Public Health, Dr. Ursula Anderson thoroughly inspects the tremendous problem of the increased number of teen-agers unwed mothers.

She said, "First, what is the cause of this increase and what can be done to reverse the trend? In looking for a reason, one is struck by the fact that the present teen-ager was born in the immediate postwar period in which communications media expanded tremendously. Could this alarming problem be due to the influence of television . . . that satiates the viewers with orgies of sex and crime?"

The automobile, drive-in movies and suggestive, almost pornographic books are also accused.

I believe these are the well-

Indian summer, we used to think, was that spot of warm weather which follows the first chills of October. Now, after checking the 1967 calendar of special events, we know better. It's July AND August!

So, if you want to do any "Indian Summer" celebrating in October you may have to do it yourself. Our red-skinned brothers could be all tucked out by their summer of frolicking fun!

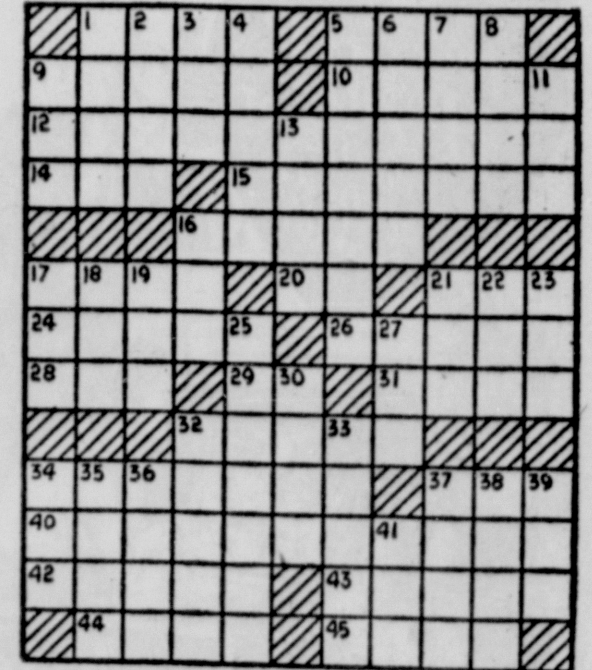

Things start popping July 1 with the Mescalero Apache Ceremonial. By July 3 the Flathead and Pawnee Pow-wows are underway, too.

July 4 isn't reserved for just paleface celebrating. That date there'll be plenty of whooping at the Yakima Pow-Wow and the Shoshone-Bannock War and Social Dances.

Hopi Indian Home Dances run from July 11 to 31 and there's a Wolf Point Stampede at the Fort Peck Reservation July 12-14. And also a pow-wow booked for Standing Rock Reservation July 28-30.

Parish To Honor Church Founder

The congregation of the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 E. Ohio St., is planning special services on Sunday at 2 p. m. in honor of Rev. O. L. Ferguson, founder of the first church.

Rev. Ferguson helped to organize the Church of Christ in

REV. O. L. FERGUSON

Christian Union in New Holland at the age of 16. He joined the ministry at the age of 18.

He was married to the former Lottie Arnold, who died in 1962. They are the parents of five children: Paul and Everett of California, Roy of Circleville, Grayson of Columbus and Mrs. Richard (Marthabell) Peters of Todd, North Carolina. Rev. Ferguson is now married to Flora Spires Ferguson.

In the late fall of 1910, Jacob Chilcote contacted Rev. Ferguson for a revival, which was conducted in a brick building on W. Mound St. It was successful and from it the first Church of Christ in Christian Union was organized, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Arledge, with 21

City Court Lists $16,520 As June Income

The income of Circleville Municipal Court from fines, costs and bond forfeitures during June totaled $16,520.42, according to a report prepared by Naomi Houghton, clerk.

In listing disbursements, Mrs. Houghton noted that $12,023.16 was earmarked for the Circleville city treasury.

The treasurer of the state received $2,935.64, which was 45 per cent of all fines and bond forfeitures resulting from Ohio State Highway Patrol arrests. Pickaway County received $1,510.52 from the court according to the report.

Other disbursements included $12.10 to the office of Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, $9 for subpoena fees, $30 to the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

There were a total of 598 cases filed during June. The court docket was cleared of 702 cases.

In addition to the criminal traffic, there were 17 civil cases filed during the month. Six civil actions were concluded and Judge Sterling Lamb also performed two marriages. The city received $67 in costs from the two marriages and the civil actions.

charter members. Until a church was completed, services were held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Arledge.

The church, with the help of volunteers, was completed in three months. Rev. Ferguson was elected as the pastor and commuted from Washington C.H. for about five years. In 1916 he bought four acres of ground on E. Ohio St. and built a new home at 451 E. Ohio St.

The general church organization up to this time had been holding councils and camp meetings in the various churches. They appointed a committee of three to lease or buy ground for a tabernacle. The committee consisted of, Rev. O. L. Ferguson, Rev. Everett Keaton and Rev. Given McKibban.

The tabernacle was completed and ready for council and camp meetings in August of 1918. It was agreed that it should be called the Mount of Praise. The building was enlarged in 1928 and later to its present size.

Rev. Ferguson served on the council and camp meeting boards for 28 years. He pastored the local church for 32 years.

Rev. Ferguson will be 81 years old Nov. 22. He is the last of the pioneer ministers of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union.

The present pastor, Rev. Edward Adkins, today welcomed the community to attend the occasion in honor of Rev. Ferguson.

College Must Take Negroes If Qualified

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge made permanent today an injunction prohibiting Girard College, a private school for male orphans, from denying admission of Negroes solely because of their race.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph S. Lord, III, said the college — founded by Colonial era banker Stephen Girard for "poor, male, white orphans" — must accept all qualified boys.

He stayed execution of his order, however, pending appeal by the institution to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 3rd Circuit.

The judge's ruling was his second in the case. Last Sept. 27 he held that the college couldn't bar Negroes because it was a violation of a Pennsylvania law that forbids racial discrimination in public places.

The Circuit Court reversed Lord on this point, holding that the issue of admission must be decided solely on whether the federal constitutional rights of seven Negro applicants had been violated.

Today Lord so ruled, broadening his order to include not only the seven who had applied — and turned down — but all future qualified Negro boys.

Girard died in 1831, leaving the bulk of his estate, approximately $7 million to establish the school.

It was built in 1848, in North Philadelphia, now the heart of a Negro neighborhood.

Making Films in New York Is Much Easier Nowadays

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The camera focuses on the marquee sign of a grocery market at Broadway and 90th Street: "We are Proud of Our Boneless Smoked Ham."

Then the shot pans down to the figures of Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, strolling down Broadway in animated conversation. It is midnight, and they are shooting final scenes for "The Odd Couple."

"Hey, Walter!" shouts a heavy-set woman who is standing between two parked cars. Remember me? I'm your second cousin, once removed."

"Hi ya, honey," Matthau answers with a sour grin. He continues rehearsing the scene with costar Lemmon.

A crowd forms on the sidewalk, and they are gently urged out of camera range by city policemen with night sticks. A grizzled oldster in overcoat of ancient tweed totters out of a tavern and demands, "What's goin' on here?"

"They're just shooting a movie," says an affable young policeman, who directs the drunk on his unsure way.

Within an hour, the Paramount company has finished the complicated scene and moves to another Manhattan location. Such is the facility with which film crews can operate in New York since Mayor John F. Lindsay proclaimed this city to be "Hollywood on the Hudson."

"Was not ever so. Until a year ago, film makers returned from New York locations with horrendous tales of unruly crowds, itchy-palmed police and civic officials, and movie unionists who demanded triple pay for indifferent work."

The busy new mayor gave the complaints his attention. He drew promises of cooperation from unions and cut red tape so producers needed only a single permit to film on city streets. He also promised adequate police protection for the filmmakers.

Lindsay's campaign appears to have produced results. In his recent review of accomplishments in 1966, the mayor cited a 100 per cent increase in the number of films shot here and claimed a $20-million expenditure for goods and services by the movie companies. The record is likely to be even better this year; 25 features have already been shot here.

"Welcome!" said a recent Macy's ad in The New York Times. "The movie makers are back where movies began...in New York." The ad's special welcome was for "The Odd Couple" and four other Paramount films that will location here this summer.

Producer-Director George Seaton is a veteran of New York filming, having made such films as "Miracle on 34th Street," "Anything Can Happen," "Country Girl" and "The Rat Race."

Seaton noted that one factor prevents Lindsay's dream of a Hollywood on the Hudson from becoming a reality: lack of studio facilities. He added:

"Shooting in New York is a boon for a director because he can use stage actors, as in London. But New York can never be a major production center until there are first-class studio facilities here."

Yank Commanders Using Some Civil War Tactics

MEKONG RIVER DELTA, South Vietnam (AP)—America's military commanders have harkened back to Civil War days on the Mississippi for tactics to fight guerrilla dominance of Vietnam's lush Mekong River delta.

It's called riverine warfare, a term first used by Union troops in 1862. The 1967 version combines amphibious tactics, river assault groups like those formed by the French in Vietnam, and an historical thank-you to Gen. Winfield Scott who saw the need for Navy gunboats on the Mississippi.

For the past month a flotilla of barracks ships, gunboats and landing craft has been launching antiguerrilla sweeps in estuaries below Saigon. These are pinpricks in the vast area that holds one-third of Vietnam's people and furnishes most of the rice to government and Viet Cong alike.

The heart of the operation is the Benueah, a converted tank-landing ship now jammed with troop quarters, command centers and communications gear—as well as a popcorn stand.

Aboard the troopships are two battalions of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division; the officers anxious to make riverine warfare work and the infantrymen bemused at finding themselves part soldier, part sailor and part Marine.

The shallow-draft landing boats are modified versions of old World War II craft but much better armed. Some carry machine guns and mortars. A special type carries a 40mm cannon. They are meant to not only land the infantrymen but then push into narrow waterways and give direct supporting fire where possible.

The delta, 75 per cent under water during the rainy season now starting, has countless waterways where such craft can operate.

The Viet Cong has used these waterways freely in the past, flitting about in sampans at night and disappearing by day.

Many areas are honeycombed with bunkers, foxholes and trenches neatly hidden in palm stands, inside villages or camouflaged into the dikes crisscrossing the paddyfields. The Viet Cong move into them when needed, then fade away to another area if pressed too far.

Last year U.S. planners sharply increased U.S. Navy patrol craft in the delta to cut down guerrilla mobility and—hope-fully—to force the Viet Cong onto high ground strongholds to be pounded by air, artillery and infantry assaults.

The idea of the riverine forces is to put infantrymen into the delta for relatively short operations before they are brought out for hot meals, clean beds, hot showers and a few days' rest—before being sent out again.

Jet Crashes Near Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio Air National Guard F84 jet fighter crashed and exploded while on a training mission Tuesday after its pilot bailed out to safety.

Two horses were killed when the plane hit the ground and exploded into flames, damaging a barn and a house at the Lynn Lee Stables near here.

The pilot, Capt. Richard N. Allen of Cincinnati, suffered a leg injury, according to a spokesman at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton.

Allen landed about a mile from the wreckage which was scattered over a 320 - square-yard area.

No cause was given for the crash. The plane was assigned to the 162nd Tactical Fighter Squadron and was involved in a summer training mission out of Alpena, Mich.

MISKA DAY CAMP — Shown are the Brownie units and Juniors attending the day camp activities at Camp Miska. Seventy-seven girls took part in the sessions.

Girl Scout Day Camp Ends At Camp Miska

Girl Scout Day Camp has been held at Camp Miska for the past two weeks. The girls have enjoyed a program of crafts, songs, hikes, cook-outs, skits, games, flag ceremonies and all camp duties during the eight day sessions.

There were 5 Brownie units and 1 Junior unit, making a total of 77 Girl Scouts attending. Each unit consisted of leaders, tripods for hand washing facilities, fire rings, clothesline for hanging their sack lunches, cup tree and sweater trees. The girls lashed and dug each of these for their own unit. The Junior group also lashed a table.

During camp they also enjoyed visits from the following: Mrs. Marion Adams, District 7 advisor; Mrs. Norma Brackett, District 7 chairman; Mrs. Louise Heine, Mrs. Lynam Penn, owner of the camp site property; Mr. Floyd Bartley, naturalist, who took the girls on a nature walk and named and labeled the trees; Mr. Morris Buchwalter brought samples of pure honey from his bee hives for the girls to taste and candles made from bee's wax and some comb; and Mrs. Sue Schneider took group pictures and pictures of each unit's skit at the closing program.

The following helped at camp: Mrs. Ronald Gaines, Mrs. Terry Sloan, Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. Birl Tatman, Mrs. William Weller, Mrs. John Barry, Mrs. Carl Hawks, Mrs. George V. Ruffe.

Mrs. Robert Reed, Miss Patty Robinson, Miss Janie Wiggins, Mrs. Charles Brackett, Miss Patricia Brackett, Mrs. David Blue, Mrs. Robert Liggett, Miss Brenda Hollar, Mrs. Ned Harter, Miss Susan Moore, Miss Lee Jolliffe, Mrs. Charles Jolliffe, Miss Judy Snook, Mrs. Joan Winkler, Mrs. Alfred Clifton, Mrs. Archie Ward, Mrs. George Schenck, Mrs. Jerry Erzen and Mrs. Jerry Williams.

Girl Scout Day Camp Ends At Camp Miska

Girl Scout Day Camp has been held at Camp Miska for the past two weeks. The girls have enjoyed a program of crafts, songs, hikes, cook-outs, skits, games, flag ceremonies and all camp duties during the eight day sessions.

There were 5 Brownie units and 1 Junior unit, making a total of 77 Girl Scouts attending. Each unit consisted of drapes, tripod for hand washing facilities, fire rings, clothesline for hanging their sack lunches, cup tree and sweater trees. The girls lashed and dug each of these for their own unit. The Junior group also lashed a table.

During camp they also enjoyed visits from the following: Mrs. Marion Adams, District 7 advisor; Mrs. Norma Brackett, District 7 chairman; Mrs. Louise Heine, Mrs. Lynam Penn, owner of the camp site property; Mr. Floyd Bartley, naturalist, who took the girls on a nature walk and named and labeled the trees; Mr. Morris Buchwalter brought samples of pure honey from his bee hives for the girls to taste and candles made from bee's wax and some comb; and Mrs. Sue Schneider took group pictures and pictures of each unit's skit at the closing program.

The following helped at camp: Mrs. Ronald Gaines, Mrs. Terry Sloan, Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. Birl Tatman, Mrs. William Weller, Mrs. John Barry, Mrs. Carl Hawks, Mrs. George V. Riffle.

Mrs. Robert Reed, Miss Patty Robinson, Miss Janie Wiggins, Mrs. Charles Brackett, Miss Patricia Brackett, Mrs. David Blue, Mrs. Robert Liggett, Miss Brenda Hollar, Mrs. Ned Hartert, Miss Susan Moore, Miss Lee Jolliffe, Mrs. Charles Jolliffe, Miss Judy Snook, Mrs. Joan Winkler, Mrs. Alfred Clifton, Mrs. Archie Ward, Mrs. George Schenck, Mrs. Jerry Erzen and Mrs. Jerry Williams.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — After weeks of getting ready the United Nations this week faced its showdown on the Arab-Israeli tension and the result was zero. That there was a lot of wheeling and, perhaps dealing, with the various members by the United States on one side and the Soviet Union on the other can be taken for granted. But, like President Johnson's meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, no outsider knows what went on behind the scenes. All that is known is that when the test came neither side had enough votes to win. Thus once again the United Nations looks ineffective. By now this is an old story. But, despite all the yelping and handwringing about the condition of the international organization, it has been clear from the beginning that on any given problem the United Nations can only be as strong as its members want it to be. That reality was there before there was a United Nations—in the days of its creation in 1945 when the big powers insisted upon the right to veto any action the other members of the Security Council thought right and basic distrust and self-interest were part of the organization from the start. The Soviets have been the greatest practitioner of the veto. Sometimes this has had a ridiculous result, as in 1950 when the council voted to stop the aggression of North Korea against South Korea. Moscow could have, and would have, prevented this action, if it had been present at voting time. But it wasn't. It happened to be deliberately absent, putting on a sulking act because Red China wasn't given U.N. membership. And there was the time three years ago that the Soviet Union and France deadlocked the General Assembly when they refused to pay their peacekeeping dues, arguing that only the council, not the assembly, could determine such dues.

And this year there was the never-to-be-forgotten fiasco when the U.N. peacekeeping force was yanked out of Egypt in the midst of the Arab-Israeli crisis and just before the war began. For 10 years the force, by permission of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, had been stationed inside Egypt along the border with Israel. The latter would not allow U.N. troops inside Israel. As Nasser neared the peak of his war buildup, he told U.N. Secretary General U Thant to pull his peacekeepers out immediately. And Thant did. So the U.N. troops, which had been in Egypt a decade, weren't there when needed most. To recapture the goodwill of the Arabs, who felt let down because Moscow did not step in to save them from a beating by Israel, Moscow sent Kosygin to the General Assembly to lead the way for the Arabs against Israel. That was weeks ago and the Soviets had plenty of time to line up support among the 122 member nations. Moscow wanted Israel condemned as an aggressor and ordered to withdraw from the Arab territory it took in the war. In the General Assembly vote this was defeated. But so was a two-way Latin American proposal, backed by the United States, calling for Israeli withdrawal but also demanding that the Arab states renounce their belligerency towards Israel. A number of other resolutions were also knocked down. But the assembly did approve, 99 to 0, a resolution calling Israel's unification of Jerusalem invalid. Now the argument goes back to the Security Council whose failure in the first place to reach any solutions had prompted the Soviets to take the problem to the General Assembly. The one lesson that emerges from it all has always been: The United Nations is a good meeting place for the nations of the world. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't. It works when it suits the interests of the members to make it work. It's anything but an ideal organization. But it's the only one the world has. It may stagger along indefinitely or, in the end, fall on its face, as the League of Nations did.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart has delayed at least until October the jailing of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and seven other Negro ministers for violating an Alabama court order. The court upheld by a 5-4 vote June 12 the contempt of court convictions of King and the other leaders of April 1963 desegregation demonstrations in Birmingham in violation of the order. King and the others had received five-day jail sentences. Stewart, however, barred imposition of the jail terms until the court has a chance to consider a petition for a new hearing. The court, now in recess, could not act on the petition until Oct. 9 at the earliest. WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says his cost reducing efforts saved $914 million in military spending during the fiscal year that ended last Saturday. McNamara, vowing to continue this year his five-year war against excess Pentagon expenditures, forecast additional savings of $590 million from actions taken last fiscal year. "There must be water somewhere in our $73 billion budget for this year. I propose to find it and wring it out," he told newsmen Wednesday. Capital Footnotes Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan is expected to accept President Johnson's invitation and visit Washington sometime in November. The Association of American Railroads has set up a central computer system in Washington that, when fully operational in two years, will be able to pinpoint the location of any freight car anywhere in the United States. The Air Force is sending a squadron of A37 ground attack aircraft to Vietnam this fall to test the new lightweight subsonic jet for close air support of ground forces, interdiction missions and counterinsurgency warfare.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Divorce Sometimes Best; Even for Kids

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and have a problem. My mother and father are getting a divorce.

My mother has a lawyer to fight for her rights, and my daddy has a lawyer to fight for his rights. Why don't us kids have lawyers to fight for our rights?

The court says you have to live with your mother or your father. I want to live with both of them, but nobody asks me anything. What can I do?

RICHARD

DEAR RICHARD: Your letter eloquently expresses the hurt felt by many children when their parents divorce. Your "rights," however, do not include forcing your parents to live together whether they like it or not.

I don't know what the circumstances are in this case, Richard, but most parents don't like dividing their families any more than it likes to be divided, but they have apparently decided that this decision is the best for all concerned.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a neighbor who gets up bright and early on Sunday morning to cut his grass with a power lawn mower? I once mentioned (kiddingly) that he shouldn't "work" on Sunday. He said it wasn't "work," it was exercise.

SLEEP RUINED

DEAR RUINED: Tell him (and this time NOT kiddingly) that he is "disturbing the peace." This grim phrase could throw a scare into him.)

P. S. I think anyone who uses a power lawn mower before noon on Sunday should be forced to shave with it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way to find out if a person who was born in another country and claims to be an American citizen REALLY is a citizen? He has lived in this town for about 25 years.

I don't want that person to know that I am trying to find out, but I am willing to spend up to $100 for this information. Sign me,

"GOOD REASONS"

DEAR "GOOD": Your local bureau of immigration and naturalization can provide you with the information you seek at no cost. But be prepared to divulge the reasons for your inquiry. It is up to the bureau chief to decide whether your "reasons" are "good" enough.

DEAR ABBY: We are a one-car family, so my mother drives my father to a corner about 2 miles from home, and a fellow employee picks him up there and gives him a ride to work.

Dad is dropped at that same corner every evening between 4:30 and 5:30 (the time varies), then he calls home for someone to drive out and pick him up. He rings the house, lets the phone ring twice, and then he hangs up and saves the dime.

It seems that everyone we ever knew calls our house between 4:30 to 5:30. When mom answers, she can't hang up until she's told the caller all the latest news. My father gets mad because the line is busy, gives up, and walks home. And naturally he's in a bad mood all evening. How can I, a teenage daughter, keep peace in the family?

NO JOKE

DEAR NO: Stand phone guard. When it rings after 4:30, YOU answer it, and tell the caller you are expecting an important call, and to please call back after 5:30.

Grange

STAR

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Luckhart, Pickaway County Grange Deputies, were guests at the Star Grange meeting last Thursday evening at Monroe School.

Worthy Master Kenneth Reid presided over the business session and heard various reports.

The group voted to serve lunch at a card party July 8 at the 4-H and Grange Building. It was also announced that Star Grange will help with the Fair Lunch on Thursday and plans were discussed concerning the possibility of a booth at the fair. Mrs. Allen Follrod was named chairman to look into the possibilities.

The Grange Youth Picnic is to be held at Marion State Park July 10, and all grange members are invited to attend. The Prince and Princess for Pickaway County will be chosen at that time.

The ladies degree team demonstrated the first degree for inspection and the program was under the direction of Mrs. Follrod and her committee.

The program, entitled "Our Grange," opened with group singing. Nancy Morgan read "When We Meet We Eat." The chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furness, gave the thought for the day and Harold Furness read "My Get Up and Go Has Got Up And Went."

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reid and Gerald and Janet Reid presented a skit, "Just For The Fun Of It."

A tableau depicting 100 years ago was presented with Laura Long, Robert Morgan, Gerald and Janet Reid, Ernestine Dudleyson was the reader.

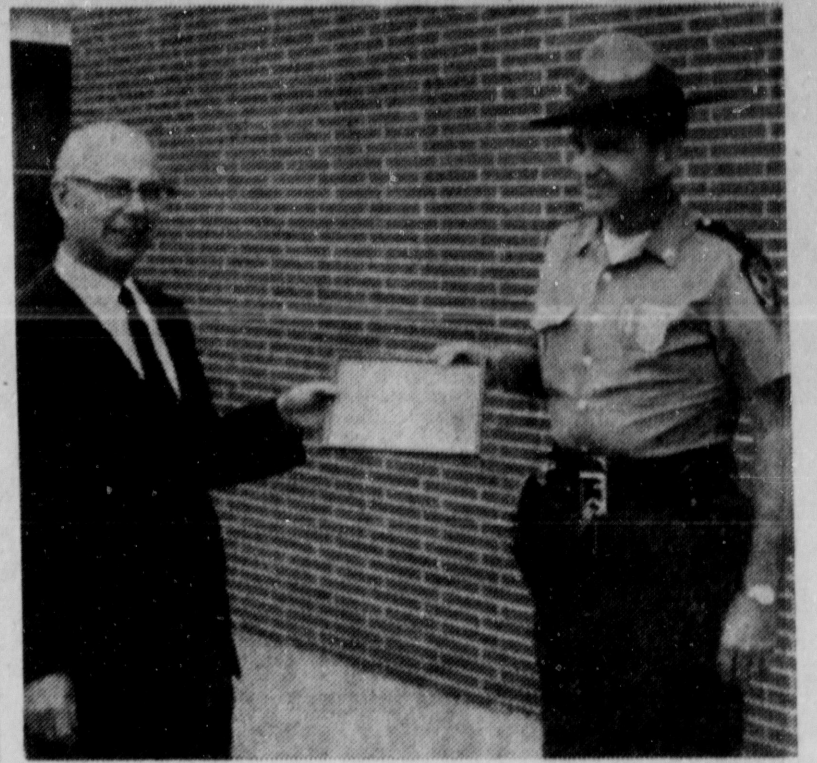

Mrs. Paul Dawson closed the meeting by reading "What The Grange Means To Me."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Helen Hammel and Mrs. Harry J. Smith.

The next meeting, July 11, will feature a trip around the world with Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler showing slides of their trip. All members are urged to attend.

All that is known is that when the test came neither side had enough votes to win. Thus once again the United Nations looks ineffective. By now this is an old story. But, despite all the yelping and handwringing about the condition of the international organization, it has been clear from the beginning that on any given problem the United Nations can only be as strong as its members want it to be. That reality was there before there was a United Nations—in the days of its creation in 1945 when the big powers insisted upon the right to veto any action the other members of the Security Council thought right and basic distrust and self-interest were part of the organization from the start. The Soviets have been the greatest practitioner of the veto. Sometimes this has had a ridiculous result, as in 1950 when the council voted to stop the aggression of North Korea against South Korea. Moscow could have, and would have, prevented this action, if it had been present at voting time. But it wasn't. It happened to be deliberately absent, putting on a sulking act because Red China wasn't given U.N. membership. And there was the time three years ago that the Soviet Union and France deadlocked the General Assembly when they refused to pay their peacekeeping dues, arguing that only the council, not the assembly, could determine such dues.

And this year there was the never-to-be-forgotten fiasco when the U.N. peacekeeping force was yanked out of Egypt in the midst of the Arab-Israeli crisis and just before the war began. For 10 years the force, by permission of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, had been stationed inside Egypt along the border with Israel. The latter would not allow U.N. troops inside Israel. As Nasser neared the peak of his war buildup, he told U.N. Secretary General U Thant to pull his peacekeepers out immediately. And Thant did. So the U.N. troops, which had been in Egypt a decade, weren't there when needed most. To recapture the goodwill of the Arabs, who felt let down because Moscow did not step in to save them from a beating by Israel, Moscow sent Kosygin to the General Assembly to lead the way for the Arabs against Israel. That was weeks ago and the Soviets had plenty of time to line up support among the 122 member nations. Moscow wanted Israel condemned as an aggressor and ordered to withdraw from the Arab territory it took in the war. In the General Assembly vote this was defeated. But so was a two-way Latin American proposal, backed by the United States, calling for Israeli withdrawal but also demanding that the Arab states renounce their belligerence towards Israel. A number of other resolutions were also knocked down. But the assembly did approve, 99 to 0, a resolution calling Israel's unification of Jerusalem invalid. Now the argument goes back to the Security Council whose failure in the first place to reach any solutions had prompted the Soviets to take the problem to the General Assembly. The one lesson that emerges from it all has always been: The United Nations is a good meeting place for the nations of the world. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't. It works when it suits the interests of the members to make it work. It's anything but an ideal organization. But it's the only one the world has. It may stagger along indefinitely or, in the end, fall on its face, as the League of Nations did.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart has delayed at least until October the jailing of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and seven other Negro ministers for violating an Alabama court order. The court upheld by a 5-4 vote June 12 the contempt of court convictions of King and the other leaders of April 1963 desegregation demonstrations in Birmingham in violation of the order. King and the others had received five-day jail sentences. Stewart, however, barred imposition of the jail terms until the court has a chance to consider a petition for a new hearing. The court, now in recess, could not act on the petition until Oct. 9 at the earliest.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Divorce Sometimes Best; Even for Kids

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and have a problem. My mother and father are getting a divorce.

My mother has a lawyer to fight for her rights, and my daddy has a lawyer to fight for his rights. Why don't us kids have lawyers to fight for our rights?

The court says you have to live with your mother or your father. I want to live with both of them, but nobody asks me anything. What can I do?

RICHARD
DEAR RICHARD: Your letter eloquently expresses the hurt felt by many children when their parents divorce. Your "rights," however, do not include forcing your parents to live together whether they like it or not.

I don't know what the circumstances are in this case, Richard, but most parents don't like dividing their families any more than it likes to be divided, but they have apparently decided that this decision is the best for all concerned.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a neighbor who gets up bright and early on Sunday morning to cut his grass with a power lawn mower? I once mentioned (kiddingly) that he shouldn't "work" on Sunday. He said it wasn't "work," it was exercise.

SLEEP RUINED
DEAR RUINED: Tell him (and this time NOT kiddingly) that he is "disturbing the peace. This grim phrase could throw a scare into him.)

P. S. I think anyone who uses a power lawn mower before noon on Sunday should be forced to shave with it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way to find out if a person who was born in another country and claims to be an American citizen REALLY is a citizen? He has lived in this town for about 25 years.

I don't want that person to know that I am trying to find out, but I am willing to spend up to $100 for this information. Sign me,

"GOOD REASONS"
DEAR "GOOD": Your local bureau of immigration and naturalization can provide you with the information you seek at no cost. But be prepared to divulge the reasons for your inquiry. It is up to the bureau chief to decide whether your "reasons" are "good" enough.

DEAR ABBY: We are a one-car family, so my mother drives my father to a corner about 2 miles from home, and a fellow employee picks him up there and gives him a ride to work.

Dad is dropped at that same corner every evening between 4:30 and 5:30 (the time varies), then he calls home for someone to drive out and pick him up. He rings the house, lets the phone ring twice, and then he hangs up and saves the time.

It seems that everyone we ever knew calls our house between 4:30 to 5:30. When mom answers, she can't hang up until she's told the caller all the latest news. My father gets mad because the line is busy, gives up, and walks home. And naturally he's in a bad mood all evening. How can I, a teenage daughter, keep peace in the family?

NO JOKE
DEAR NO: Stand phone guard. When it rings after 4:30, YOU answer it, and tell the caller you are expecting an important call, and to please call back after 5:30.

You Can Enter If You Dare

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A statewide queen contest will highlight the summer convention of the Ohio News Photographers Association July 28-30 at the Downtowner Motor Inn. Any single Ohio girl, 18 to 28, may enter the contest which will be judged by members attending the meeting.

A photo show will be open to the public a week before the convention at Canton's Central Plaza.

Rhodes Will Fly To Detroit Thursday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes and Development Director Fred Neuenschwander fly to Detroit Thursday for talks with industrial representatives about locating or expanding their plants in Ohio.

Neuenschwander said officials of three major motor companies will be among those interviewed. They plan to leave Columbus at 6:30 a. m. and return Thursday night.

Grange

STAR

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Luckhart, Pickaway County Grange Deputies, were guests at the Star Grange meeting last Thursday evening at Monroe School.

Worthy Master Kenneth Reid presided over the business session and heard various reports.

The group voted to serve lunch at a card party July 8 at the 4-H and Grange Building. It was also announced that Star Grange will help with the Fair Lunch on Thursday and plans were discussed concerning the possibility of a booth at the fair. Mrs. Allen Follrod was named chairman to look into the possibilities.

The Grange Youth Picnic is to be held at Marion State Park July 10, and all grange members are invited to attend. The Prince and Princess for Pickaway County will be chosen at that time.

The ladies degree team demonstrated the first degree for inspection and the program was under the direction of Mrs. Follrod and her committee.

The program, entitled "Our Grange", opened with group singing. Nancy Morgan read "When We Meet We Eat". The chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furness, gave the thought for the day and Harold Furness read "My Get Up and Go Has Got Up And Went".

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reid and Gerald and Janet Reid presented a skit, "Just For The Fun Of It".

A tableau depicting 100 years ago was presented with Laura Long, Robert Morgan, Gerald and Janet Reid, Ernestine Dudson was the reader.

Mrs. Paul Dawson closed the meeting by reading "What The Grange Means To Me".

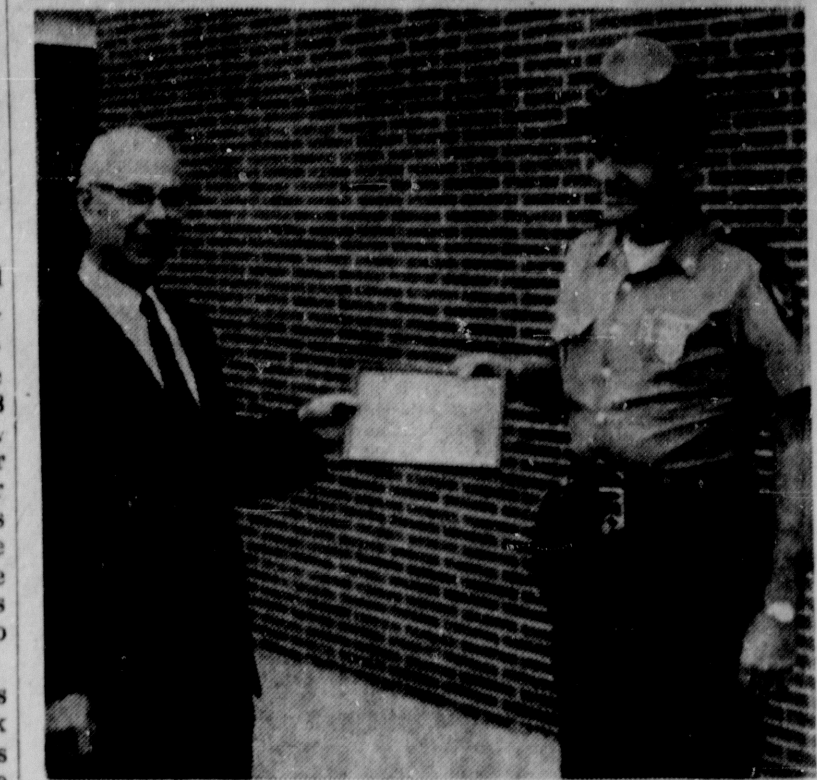

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Helen Hammel and Mrs. Harry J. Smith.

The next meeting, July 11, will feature a trip around the world with Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler showing slides of their trip. All members are urged to attend.

SWEET PEA ROW — Each year Dr. Samuel has a row of sweet peas blooming in back of his office. It's become a tradition and apartment dwellers in the vicinity like to look down on these old fashioned favorites. Sweet peas, modern hybrids or not, seem to retain the fragrance that made them so popular at the turn of the century. The dentist is pictured here examining the plants.

MINIATURE GARDEN — Dr. Richard Samuel takes a few minutes off to tend his miniature garden which is located right out the back door of his dental offices. The tiniest of gardens, it has a pool, a fountain, and a border of oak leaf lettuce which people like to nibble.

Dentist Reaps Relaxation By Gardening in Small Way

Dr. Richard Samuel, whose dental office is at 154 W. Main St., has a miniature garden in the area in back of his office. And we do mean miniature. We are positive it would win the award for the smallest garden in Pickaway County.

Actually the Lilliputian garden is about two by five feet. It is just outside the doctor's back door. The wall of the brick building serves as background. White painted, four-inch boards edge the garden on three sides. And centering the garden in back is a fountain, a figurine of a boy holding an urn from which a stream of water pours into the blue lined pool.

The pleasing little figurine is white like the edging of the garden. To be exact the little boy has not yet been "plumbed" so the day we visited the garden we saw the water trickling from the urn only in our mind's eye and heard the gentle splash only in our mind's

Image Trend Is Defined

If you attend a flower arrangement demonstration and the lecturer says of one of her displays — "Now this belongs in the Image Trend category" don't scratch your head and ponder.

The definition of Image Trend is: "A Japanese style arrangement, abstract in nature, which represents a mood, (Image) an idea, or a philosophy. It can carry a symbolic title. It is not limited to a portrayal of reality and it may be constructed of any material or combination of materials. It is interesting only for design or suggested meaning."

Garden Gossip

As usual the American Beauty Climber on the Ervin Kocher porch at 206 S. Pickaway St. was an eye-catching sight. People stopped to take pictures of it in color. Ervin Kocher clips off the spent blooms and in the autumn he cuts out some of the old wood. The Kochers reported that the roses lasted longer this spring than usual. No hard rains!

When we were planning the caravan at the Extension Office last month the garden of Mrs. Herman Porter near Five Points was mentioned as a small garden of real interest. Small gardens often have quite a variety of plants.

And small gardens are not the responsibility and worry that large gardens can be.

Mrs. Elgin Merriman, 407 N. Court, has a narrow space between the house and the property to the south. She manages to always have a bright lot of flowers blooming in this space which surely is not more than a yard wide. Right now it's petunias and geraniums. They are both outdoing themselves at the moment. They buy petunia plants when they are quite small.

Heaven knows I have gardens enough. But Dr. Richard Samuel's little backdoor garden has inspired me to try a miniature garden at my own backdoor. Right now I dump the coffee grounds there and it is a great place to dig for fishworms.

Looks like you'd better study Japanese Ikebana if you want to be in the arranging whirl. Several Circleville arrangers belong to the Columbus Chapter of Ikebana International. These include Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Ned Harden and Mrs. Kenneth Hannan.

Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart went to Kingwood Center at Mansfield once a week for a course in Ikebana last year. Since then she has taken lessons from Sally T. Mikawa who lives on Derbyshire Drive in Columbus and plans on another course.

Mrs. Eugene Hanson, 445 Northridge Road, discovered her prickly pear from Arizona was in blossom. It has a very lovely yellow flower and she says she feels like a picture in Arizona Highways which often features cactus blooms.

We stopped by at Yvonne Drake's the other day and how lovely her flowers were! She too had a yellow cactus flower. She had a big planting of purple larkspur in full bloom and among her roses lots of tall spikes of Standing Cypress or Gilla with its orange red florets.

It's daylily time now. Now is the moment to investigate daylily plantings for varieties that take your fancy.

Of Handy Hatfield's 1,500 seedlings he'll keep only a handful. Some of them are too much like named varieties already in existence. Others have more serious flaws. But they are all pretty. Wonder if he'd sell some he was not planning to market?

Mrs. Donald Watt, N. Court St., has some very lovely iris seedlings that she has had fun watching. But she is not planning to market any. It's a lot of bother. One must keep the ancestry straight have the name patented and a lot of complicated stuff.

My yucca plants are blooming for the first time this year. I am delighted. Some people call this Adam's needle. And others call it Eve's thread.

I just heard they outlawed it at the Whisler Cemetery because it is a wild spreader. O dear! And it took me so long to acquire a bloom. Nobody ever includes yucca along with evergreens but it is green all winter.

Mrs. Jake Bond of Kingston has no trouble wintering over passion vines. She brought me one the other day. She says they root close to the foundation of her house and she thinks that is why they never winter-kill.

Mrs. Pearl Patrick, Route 1, Kingston, said her roses had been most satisfactory this spring. She said her iris had been a disappointment. She is the first person we have seen who had no luck with iris. It seemed pretty generally to be a great iris year.

It's a great year for wood ticks too. We regard wood ticks as the most loathsome of critters. In fact our dog is not looking well and we think the wood ticks have something to do with it.

We have a real snake story. Sally Ebert who was visiting at her father-in-law's home leaned up against a hollow tree in the yard. She felt something against her arm and tried to brush it away. It was a big snake that disappeared in the knot of the tree.

She and her mother-in-law yelled for Pete Ebert to come with his gun. They pointed to the hole in the tree and there were two snake tails instead of one. Pete sat patiently and after more than an hour the snakes started out of the hole.

Pete's aim was true. The snakes fell to the ground with a big thud. When they measured them one was seven feet long and the other about five and a half feet and as thick around as Bess Ebert's wrist.

Phlox Adds Much Color in Summer

Phlox, paniculata (often called Phlox decussata; should be used more extensively in the Pickaway County area. Plants can provide fine color in the perennial border in July and August when perennials are at minimum.

Up-to-date phlox cultivars provide gardeners with a marvelous range of colors. Why isn't this plant used more commonly?

Is it perhaps that gardeners realize that phlox is affected by various diseases and that it is a prey to insects?

They filled a bushel basket.

The Eberts who are wise in the ways of the woods said they were tree snakes. Pete plans to chop down the hollow tree.

We tried to give Ed Ingram some spider plant seedlings. He refused them. He says spider plant smells like stale skunk.

Some people object to alyssum trees because of their odor. To be sure it isn't good but the alyssum, nonetheless is a fast growing tree and I'd plant it if I lived in a treeless area.

But not if I lived in Columbus. It is thought to be a weed tree there and it's against the law to have one.

The extension trainees, Jim Wilson and Jim Maxwell said that the ginkgo trees on the Ohio State campus were misfeable smelling, at fruiting time - complete surprise to me to learn they bore fruit!

But to get to more pleasant things the honeysuckle is blooming now and permeates the air with rare sweetness. We do believe that the fragrance that is most delicate is that of the wild crabapple.

The Misses Doris and Bernice Allen have a very tall spruce tree in their front yard - 100 feet or more high. It was struck by lightning and they had to summon the fire department. The old church of their farm was de-roofed by a wind storm earlier this year.

Ed Ingram says the time to transplant Oriental poppies is August when they are dormant. Just no use, he says, planting them in the spring.

Everybody had a great time at the Whisler Presbyterian Church fish fry Friday evening. The sun was hot though. Wish somebody would plant some trees for shade in the big church yard.

Powdery mildew is one of the diseases to which phlox is subject. It's a fungus on the outside of the leaf that looks like a powdery patch. Sometimes it causes leaf distortion.

This can be prevented by dusting with sulphur or by using two tablespoons of wettable sulphur to one gallon of water and applying as a spray.

Mildew is an eradicant which kills established infections but the sulphur on new growth will prevent infections.

Spider mites which give the leaves a mottled appearance can be controlled by applications of malathion.

Many of the phlox cultivars provide a second period of bloom for the late garden if spent flowerheads are removed after blooming.

Once you have the preventatives handy it is not much trouble to take care of phlox. We are missing a lot when we by-pass this fine July-August blooming perennial.

Everybody had a great time at the Whisler Presbyterian Church fish fry Friday evening. The sun was hot though. Wish somebody would plant some trees for shade in the big church yard.

Powdery mildew is one of the diseases to which phlox is subject. It's a fungus on the outside of the leaf that looks like a powdery patch. Sometimes it causes leaf distortion.

This can be prevented by dusting with sulphur or by using two tablespoons of wettable sulphur to one gallon of water and applying as a spray.

Mildex is an eradicant which kills established infections but the sulphur on new growth will prevent infections.

Spider mites which give the leaves a mottled appearance can be controlled by applications of malathion.

Many of the phlox cultivars provide a second period of bloom for the late garden if spent flowerheads are removed after blooming.

Once you have the preventative handy it is not much trouble to take care of phlox. We are missing a lot when we by-pass this fine July-August blooming perennial.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT

Estate of Agnes L. Roadifer, Deceased
Notice is hereby given that David A. Yates whose Post Office address is 161 W. Mound St., Circleville, Ohio has been duly appointed Executor of the Estate of Agnes L. Roadifer late of Pickaway County, Ohio, deceased.
Dated this 19th day of June 1967.
GUY G. CLINE
Judge of the Probate Court
Pickaway County, Ohio
June 29, July 6, 13.

SWEET PEA ROW — Each year Dr. Samuel has a row of sweet peas blooming in back of his office. It's become a tradition and apartment dwellers in the vicinity like to look down on these old fashioned favorites. Sweet peas, modern hybrids or not, seem to retain the fragrance that made them so popular at the turn of the century. The dentist is pictured here examining the plants.

MINIATURE GARDEN — Dr. Richard Samuel takes a few minutes off to tend his miniature garden which is located right out the back door of his dental offices. The tiniest of gardens, it has a pool, a fountain, and a border of oak leaf lettuce which people like to nibble.

Dentist Reaps Relaxation By Gardening in Small Way

Dr. Richard Samuel, whose dental office is at 154 W. Main St., has a miniature garden in the area in back of his office. And we do mean miniature. We are positive it would win the award for the smallest garden in Pickaway County.

Actually the Lilliputian garden is about two by five feet. It is just outside the doctor's back door. The wall of the brick building serves as background. White painted, four-inch boards edge the garden on three sides. And centering the garden in back is a fountain, a figurine of a boy holding an urn from which a stream of water pours into the blue lined pool.

The pleasing little figurine is white like the edging of the garden. To be exact the little boy has not yet been "plumbed" so the day we visited the garden we saw the water trickling from the urn only in our mind's eye and heard the gentle splash only in our mind's

Image Trend Is Defined

If you attend a flower arrangement demonstration and the lecturer says of one of her displays — "Now this belongs in the Image Trend category" don't scratch your head and ponder.

The definition of Image Trend is: "A Japanese style arrangement, abstract in nature, which represents a mood, (Image) an idea, or a philosophy. It can carry a symbolic title. It is not limited to a portrayal of reality and it may be constructed of any material or combination of materials. It is interesting only for design or suggested meaning."

PROBATE COURT NOTICE
All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executors and Administrators have filed their inventories and appraisements in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio:
No. 2257, Verna G. Smith, Administratrix of the estate of Franklin Smith, deceased.
No. 2258, Frank E. Tolbard Jr., Executor of the estate of Joh Carl Hemphill, deceased.
No. 2259, Anna L. Grubb, Executrix of the estate of Robert D. Grubb, deceased.
No. 2260, Laura M. Rector, Executrix of the estate of Harold A. Stout, deceased.
And that said inventories will be for hearing and settlement before the Probate Court on Monday, July 10th, 1967, at 9 o'clock A.M. Exceptions to said inventories, if any, must be filed herein on or before July 5th, 1967.
Witness my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 28th day of June, 1967.

ear. However the doctor had already bargained for the necessary copper tubing and the mechanism for the fountain.

What did this green thumbbed dentist have in the little garden? Lots of things, but no weeds. Oak leaf lettuce was used as edging. There were tuberous begonias on either side of the figurine. Coleus plants added their color to the bright petunias. There were even daisies blooming. The little pool, blue as the Mediterranean, is rectangular in shape and when we saw it there was a begonia blossom simulating a water lily afloat in it.

OF course there were no weeds. In a garden this small it's easy to keep the weeds down. Actually we had heard Dr. Samuel was a sweet pea expert. We had gone to see his Ferry Morris sweet peas (Cuthbertson's strain) which are planted in a row along the alley. They were at peak bloom. Colors included shades of pink and lavender and white. Yes, the new hybrids are just as fragrant as the old fashioned varieties were.

Dr. Samuel had strung wires across the back of the lot. Strings were then provided for plants to climb.

The miniature garden was new. But Dr. Samuel has had a row of sweet peas now for several years.

Sweet peas were a universal favorite about the turn of the century. They are rarely found in modern gardens. And the doctor has some down-to-earth advice for would-be growers.

March 17 is thought to be the traditional day to plant sweet peas. The truth of the matter is that germination will be better if a gardener will hold off a couple of weeks and plant them the last of March.

THIS bit of advice was given him by James Caldwell, Ohio State University horticulturist. Dr. Samuel believe it to be true after trying it out several years now.

"Sweet peas are heavy feeders", says the doctor. He fertilized them twice after planting and gave them one foliar feeding before bloom. They like sun and water. They are really not difficult if you give them these things and plenty of each, namely sun, food and water.

Dr. Samuel also has a beautiful dark purple clematis vine and six rose plants - also doing well under his care. A Welshman, he naturally has a green thumb and a love for growing things.

Dr. Samuel we think, has an unusual message. It is: "Don't be afraid to garden on a small scale."

Here is a very busy dentist that could not possibly garden on a big scale. He finds it very relaxing however to slip out back when he has a few minutes to spare and work in his miniature garden. Or shall we say "play" in the garden?

Cleveland Indians Drop 3-2 Decision to Detroit

CLEVELAND (AP)—The hits were even—eight apiece—but the Cleveland Indians couldn't hit when it counted in the late innings and dropped a 3-2 decision to the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Ray Oyler's squeeze bunt in the eighth inning sent the winning run home and thus the Tigers used three methods of attack in sweeping the three-game series.

In the series opener Monday night it was Jerry Lumpe's two-run homer that gave the Tigers a 2-1 triumph. Tuesday night a five-run outburst in the first inning started them on their way to a 6-1 victory.

Cleveland left 10 runners stranded Wednesday night, five of them in the last two innings when the Indians had opportunities to tie or win the game.

"We'll just have to keep working on it," said Manager Joe Adcock as he talked about the Tribe's hitting following the game. "We're a club depending on pitching but we certainly should have better hitting than shown so far."

The Indians blew a two-run lead in losing their fourth straight game. The victory was the fourth in a row for the Tigers.

Rocky Colavito's single drove in Chuck Hinton to give the Indians a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Tony Horton's leadoff homer in the second made it 2-0.

Oyler singled to lead off the fifth for the Tigers, advanced on a walk and a single and then scored on a force out.

Mickey Stanley's triple provided the tying run in the eighth and then Oyler bunted to score Stanley.

The Indians loaded the bases in their half of the eighth, but Joe Azcue fouled out on an 0-and-1 pitch and the threat ended.

In the ninth, pinch-hitter Lee Maye led off with a single and Chico Salmon singled after two were out, but Hinton grounded out and the ball game was over.

Fred Gladdings (3-3) got the victory in relief. The loss went to George Culver (5-1), who relieved starter John O'Donoghue in the seventh.

The Indians play the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight in an exhibition game.

Sandbaggers Win 1st Round At Lansdowne

The Sandbaggers won the first round of play in the Upper Lansdowne Golf League, totaling 98 points.

First round action was completed Wednesday with the Hackers winning the final night of play. Low gross honors went to Ron Leatherwood who fired a 36. Max Spangler's low net of 30 was the best of the evening.

The runnerup team in the league was the Hookers who moved from a last place position in midseason to the second spot, with 90 points.

Rounding out the standings were Hackers, 89; Par Busters, 80; Slicers, 63; Duffers, 54; Three Putters, 42; Sand Trappers, 39.

Local Stock Car Track Switches To Night Racing

Pickaway Speedway has switched its racing program from Sunday afternoon to Saturday night it was announced by track officials.

The first Saturday program was held July 1. Time trials begin at 6:30 p. m. and racing at 8 under the newly installed modern lighting system.

The speedway, located about 11 miles southeast of Circleville just off Route 56, has seating capacity for about 2,000 persons.

Reds Sign Two Draft Choices

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds announced today the signings of two recent draft choices—outfielder Shelby Andrews, 21, of Los Angeles and pitcher Dave Tomlin, 18, of West Union, Ohio.

Tomlin is reporting to Wytheville, Va., in the Appalachian League, Andrews to Sioux Falls S.D., of the Northern League.

Baseball Stars

HITTING — Don Mincher, Angels, hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning for a 4-3 victory over Boston.

PITCHING — Gaylord Perry, Giants, pitched 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, saving Mike McCormick's 10th victory as San Francisco edged the New York Mets 2-1.

Youth Baseball Players To See Columbus Jets

The board of directors of the Circleville Kiwanis Club has sanctioned a club action to provide Columbus Jet baseball tickets for 500 youngsters in the Youth Baseball Program.

The tickets will be for the night of July 26, Kiwanis Night at Jet Stadium.

A spokesman for the Kiwanis Club said today that details of transporting the youngsters to the Jet game will be worked out with the cooperation of the Youth Baseball directors.

Parents wishing to accompany the youngsters to the game may purchase tickets at Steele Produce, 135 E. Franklin St.

The Kiwanis Club originally organized the Little League in Circleville and was the sponsor and operator of the summer youth baseball program for several years.

Golfer-PGA Great Divide Still Exists

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Touring golfers emerged from a closed meeting aimed at bridging differences with the Professional Golfers Association to find the great divide still existed.

Max Elbin, president of the PGA, greeted the "no comment" session of the touring golfers Wednesday night with a threat that other pros will be invited to fill the ranks on the tour.

"I don't know what they decided in that meeting. I just laid the cards on the table. I told them the position of the executive committee had not changed," Elbin said.

Dan Sikes, tournament committee chairman, said no statement would be issued until he talked with Elbin.

The touring pros, threatening to boycott the Denver PGA tourney July 20-23 if the PGA does not relax its veto power, have been feuding with the organization since voting to put the proposed Frank Sinatra $175,000 tourney on the circuit. The PGA vetoed the players' vote, saying the Sinatra meet would conflict with the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

The pros, here for the $100,000 Speedway Open, gave a deadline of Tuesday to make peace with the PGA but extended it until the Wednesday meeting. When the two-hour meeting concluded in the press room of the Speedway Clubhouse, Sikes declined to discuss any action on a decision.

Holiday Golf Event Results at PCC Announced

A team consisting of Bud Hritz, Marshall Deam, Jim Rae and Bob Roeser placed first in the ABCD Point tourney at Pickaway Country Club Saturday.

The team totaled 153 points. Second place was the team of Bill Shockley, Bill Eddy, Bill Smith and John Payne with 150 points. Third was Steve Helwagen, Rudy Chelkowski, Jack Keane and Charlie Hall with 149.

Tuesday a select partner best ball gross and net tournament was held at PCC. Maynard Eaton and Steve Helwagen fired a best ball 70 for first in gross. George Furman and Tom McGuire had 73.

Roy Huffer and Gene Leasure netted 58 for first in that division. Rudy Chelkowski and Wilmer Muck had 60.

Palmer Boosts Total Earnings

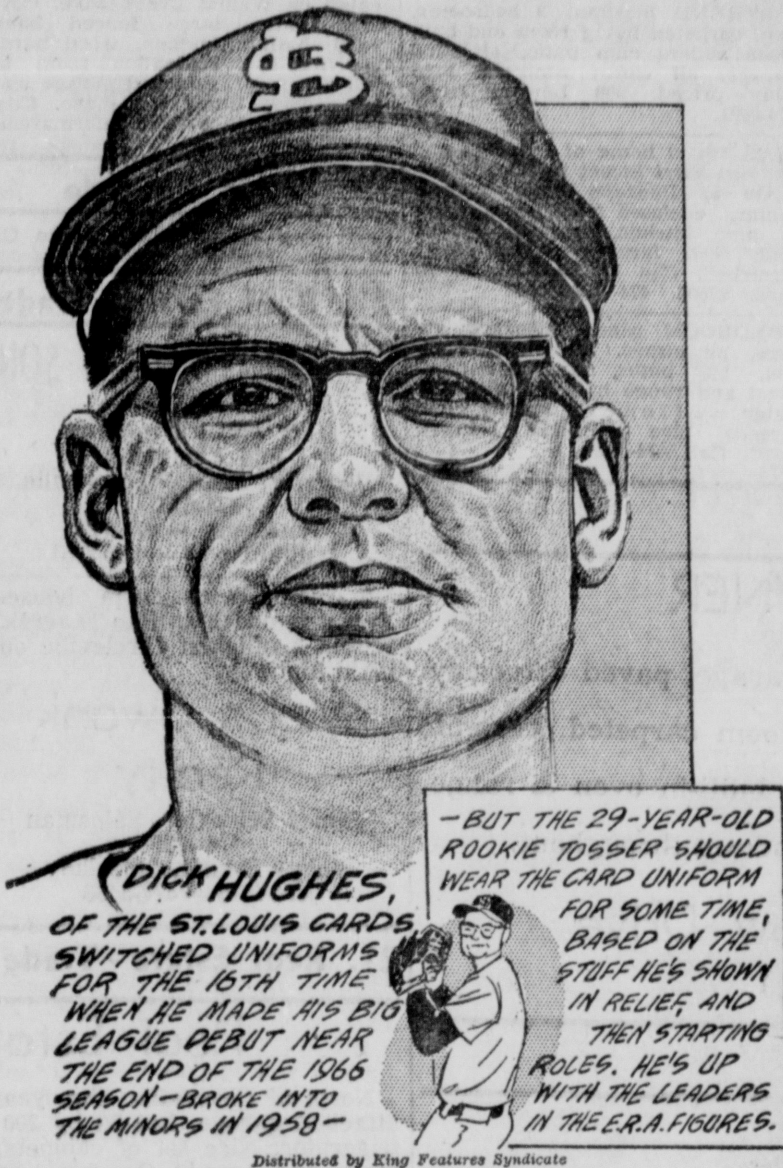

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer has boosted his total earnings on the Professional Golfers' circuit to $123,037, according to PGA statistics released Wednesday night.

Palmer's earnings through the Canadian Open put him far ahead of Julius Boros, whose official and unofficial earnings totaled $96,333.

Hawks Remain Unbeaten In Little League Majors

Herald Hawks, unbeaten leaders of the Little League Major, won over second place Binghamton, 8-1, Wednesday.

Further loop action Wednesday saw BPO Elks top Coke, 12-8 and Purina trounce American Legion, 27-8.

The Hawks are a full two games away from the field. Their 8-0 record beats Binghamton's 5-3. Coke and the Legion both have only one win.

Dave Truex told the story for the Herald team, pitching the distance for the Hawks and slashing two homers at the plate. He walked one, fanned 13, and was touched for five hits.

GREG Hoskins hurled for Binghamton, also allowing only five safeties. He walked six and struck out 11.

John Walker tagged a double for the winners and Fred Archer doubled for Binghamton.

Dave Webb picked up the mound win for the Elks with help from Kris Kline. They walked five, fanned seven and allowed six hits.

John Hitch took the loss for Coke, lasting into the third. Doug Spangler came in and finished allowing only two runs. Together they walked eight, fanned 13 and scattered nine hits.

Reggie Radcliff, Kline, Webb and Ed Ferguson doubled for the winners.

Mike Herron homered and tripled for Coke.

Quick Prom Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Quick Prom rushed through the entire field in the middle of the stretch to win the featured $1,200 race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

The 3-year-old gelding, owned by Harry Miller of Nevada, Ohio, paced the mile in 2:04 1-5 and paid $10.20, $6 and $5.

The 3-2 combination of Jose-dale Main and Success Court returned $24.40 in the daily double.

Bill Hay of Dartmouth made 33 points last season. He kicked 30 extra points and one field goal.

Cincinnati Reds Defeat Cards in Extra Innings

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Thanks to Chico Ruiz and Nelson Briles, the Cincinnati Reds have a two-game winning streak going—their first in three weeks.

Ruiz's hitting and base-running gave Cincinnati 2-1 overtime victory over the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

The game was tied 1-1 in the tenth when Ruiz went as pinch hitter for starting pitcher Jim Maloney. He doubled to center, stole third base and raced home on a wild pitch while Briles was still pitching to the next batter.

"When I saw the position (Curt) Flood must be in to catch the ball, I knew he must make a very perfect throw to get me," the Reds' utility man explained later about his hit.

"So I decided to go ahead, and never looked that way again."

Flood had to turn around to make the throw to second—and by that time Ruiz already slid in.

Vada Pinson led off with his seventh home run in the sixth, but the Cardinals tied the game in their half of the inning. Orlando Cepeda led off with a double to right and scored on a single by Tim McCarver.

Maloney, who picked up his sixth victory in ten decisions, had plenty of close calls in the game. The Cards filled the bases with two out in the fourth and eighth, and also threatened in the second inning. Maloney struck out pinch hitter Dave Ricketts to finish the eighth and got Dal Maxvill to

Mace Reins Winner at Scioto Downs

Jim Mace, reining the two-year-old filly Nauty Jane in the fourth race, gained the winner's share of the $700 purse for owner Henry L. Ford of Washington C. H.

Nauty Jane paced the mile in 2:06 4-5, paying $23.40, $8.40 and $5.40 at the mutuel windows.

Also in that race was Circle Amy, owned and driven by Porter Martin to a fifth place finish.

In the second race, Forrest Short drove Charlie Rythm, finishing sixth. Short came back in the eighth race with Sara Ann Scotch, finishing third.

The race was won in 2:04 1-5 by Quick Prom. In the sixth, Jean's Tavern, owned and driven by Porter Martin placed fourth. Jo Temple was the winner of the race in 2:05 4-5.

Tonight at the Downs, Jim Arledge of Circleville will be going postward in three races. In the first, heat of the non-betting preliminaries, he will be reining April Valley, a two year old pacer owned by Frank Rhoads.

In the first race of the regular racing card, he has Dixie Crystal entered. The seven-year-old pacer is owned jointly by Arledge and Dorothy Wenner of Bucyrus.

In the eighth race, Arledge will be going postward with Pen Dragon.

Forrest Short has Royal J. Win entered in the eighth race and Jet Pride in the ninth. Emmitt Ebenhack will be driving Middy Blouse in the third race.

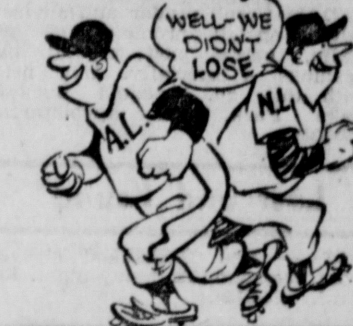

Brown Group Gets AFL Cincy Franchise

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group headed by Paul Brown has been awarded the Cincinnati franchise in the American Football League and Brown will coach the team, the Washington Post said in its Thursday editions.

The paper said Brown is in the process of disposing of his stock in the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, the team which he organized and coached until 1963.

Hill Handed First Loss

Hill Implement dropped from the ranks of the undefeated Wednesday, shutout 8-0 by powerful Block Shoes in the Mosquito League.

Circleville Lumber topped K of C, 14-12, in another league game.

Hill carried a 4-0 record into the tilt and Block's had a 3-1 slate. The two teams are now deadlocked for the top spot of the loop.

Wayne Linthicum hurled the three-hit, no run win for Block's, fanning 12 batters and walking five.

DICK Lemaster and Doug Winks shared mound chores for Hill, walking 12, fanning 13 and allowing six hits.

Linthicum and Ricky Wolfe tripled for the winners. Lemaster tripled and Winks doubled for Hill.

Cincinnati Reds Defeat Cards in Extra Innings

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Thanks to Chico Ruiz and Nelson Briles, the Cincinnati Reds have a two-game winning streak going—their first in three weeks.

Ruiz's hitting and base-running gave Cincinnati 2-1 overtime victory over the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

The game was tied 1-1 in the tenth when Ruiz went as pinch hitter for starting pitcher Jim Maloney. He doubled to center, stole third base and raced home on a wild pitch while Briles was still pitching to the next batter.

"When I saw the position (Curt) Flood must be in to catch the ball, I knew he must make a very perfect throw to get me," the Reds' utility man explained later about his hit.

"So I decided to go ahead, and never looked that way again."

Flood had to turn around to make the throw to second—and by that time Ruiz already slid in.

Vada Pinson led off with his seventh home run in the sixth, but the Cardinals tied the game in their half of the inning. Orlando Cepeda led off with a double to right and scored on a single by Tim McCarver.

Maloney, who picked up his sixth victory in ten decisions, had plenty of close calls in the game. The Cards filled the bases with two out in the fourth and eighth, and also threatened in the second inning.

Maloney struck out pinch hitter Dave Ricketts to finish the eighth and got Dal Maxvill to

Mace Reins Winner at Scioto Downs

Jim Mace, reining the two-year-old filly Nauty Jane in the fourth race, gained the winner's share of the $700 purse for owner Henry L. Ford of Washington, D. C.

Nauty Jane paced the mile in 2:06 4-5, paying $23.40, $8.40 and $5.40 at the mutuel windows.

Also in that race was Circle Amy, owned and driven by Porter Martin to a fifth place finish.

In the second race, Forrest Short drove Charlie Rythm, finishing sixth. Short came back in the eighth race with Sara Ann Scotch, finishing third.

The race was won in 2:04 1-5 by Quick Prom. In the sixth, Jean's Tavern, owned and driven by Porter Martin placed fourth. Jo Temple was the winner of the race in 2:05 4-5.

Tonight at the Downs, Jim Arledge of Circleville will be going postward in three races. In the first, heat of the non-betting preliminaries, he will be reining April Valley, a two year old pacer owned by Frank Rhoads.

In the first race of the regular racing card, he has Dixie Crystal entered. The seven-year-old pacer is owned jointly by Arledge and Dorothy Wener of Bucyrus.

In the eighth race, Arledge will be going postward with Pen Dragon.

Forrest Short has Royal J. Win entered in the eighth race and Jet Pride in the ninth. Emmitt Ebenhack will be driving Middy Blouse in the third race.

Brown Group Gets AFL Cincy Franchise

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group headed by Paul Brown has been awarded the Cincinnati franchise in the American Football League and Brown will coach the team, the Washington Post said in its Thursday editions.

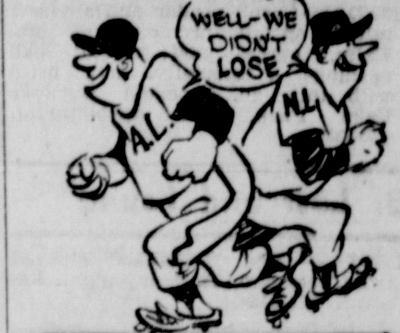

The paper said Brown is in the process of disposing of his stock in the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, the team which he organized and coached until 1963.

fly out in the fourth. Relief pitcher Ted Abernathy also got the bases full in the tenth—with one out—and then struck out pinch hitters Phil Gagliano and Ed Spiezio.

Mel Queen (8-4) is scheduled to face Dick Hughes (7-3) tonight in the last game of the series.

Atlanta Drops Chicago Cubs, 4-2

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Hank Aaron is a superstar. He can afford to endure three walks before getting his swing. Chico Ruiz is a supersub. He can't waste any time.

Aaron bided his time Wednesday night as Chicago's Rick Nye pitched around him in his first three trips to the plate. The fourth time, Aaron unloaded a three-run homer that helped Atlanta drop the Cubs 4-2. Ruiz, Cincinnati's expert on National League benches, pinch hit for Jim Maloney in the 10th inning and made the most of his one trip to the plate. He doubled, stole third and then raced home with the winning run on Reds' shaded St. Louis 3-1.

Chicago's third straight loss to Atlanta kept the Cubs one-half game back of St. Louis in the battle for the National League lead. In other games Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 5-3, San Francisco nipped New York 2-1 and Philadelphia edged Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit downed Cleveland 3-2, Washington whipped Kansas City 5-3, Minnesota battered New York 10-4, Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings and California dropped Boston 4-3.

Nye, only a rookie, knew enough to studiously avoid Aaron's menacing bat the first three times the Braves' slugger came to the plate.

Locked in a scoreless duel with Atlanta's Ken Johnson, Nye got into a hole in the seventh when Woody Woodward singled and Mack Jones walked.

Chuck Hartenstein relieved, and Aaron's 21st home run of the year sailed into the left field seats. Felipe Alou doubled home another Atlanta run in the eighth and that was enough to stand off a last-ditch Chicago rally in the ninth.

The Cardinals and Reds were tied at 1-1 after nine innings when Ruiz, who does so much bench sitting that he brings along his own cushion, batted for Maloney.

Don Sutton scattered seven hits and struck out seven as the Dodgers defeated the Pirates. The victory ended a four game Los Angeles slide.

Jim Lefebvre homered for the Dodgers, and Donn Clendenon connected for Pittsburgh.

Gaylord Perry saved Mike McCormick's 10th victory with 2-2-3 innings of airtight relief as the Giants shaded the Mets.

Hal Taner drove in San Francisco's winning run with a two-out single in the seventh and then Perry bailed McCormick out of a jam by getting Tommy Davis to rap into an inning-ending double play in the bottom of the seventh.

Shoddy Houston fielding led to two of Philadelphia's three runs against the Astros as Rick Wise with ninth-inning help from Dick Hall, won his third game.

Wise drove in a run with a fourth-inning single and successive errors on the hit by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar and Ed Mathews allowed another Philadelphia run to score.

Rusty Staub misplayed Bobby Wine's fifth-inning fly ball into a triple, leading to the Phillies' final run.

Views on TV-Radio

EDITOR'S NOTE—Ron Ely is the latest in a long line of actors and athletes who have won fame and fortune swinging from vines and making jungle calls as "Tarzan." A lot of viewers regard the NBC series as amusing and in the camp category, but Ely is a serious young actor and treats his assignment as if it were Shakespeare. And besides, that's blood, not ketchup he's been spilling for his art.

By RON ELY
For Cynthia Lowry

MEXICO CITY (AP)—I have been asked if I set out to prove something when I accepted the television role of Tarzan.

Yes, that "Tarzan" is a role an actor can play.

We work six and often seven days a week and have been keeping this pace up since January 1965 when we started filming in Brazil.

What I'm doing taxes me and challenges me. The day-after-day work is hard but if you have a pride in the business and are hammering out a product frequently from your own blood, sometimes it is very satisfying.

I've never seen one of the shows and don't know when I will. There just isn't time. We're moving constantly from Mexico City to Acapulco, Guatemala, then back to Mexico City.

It has become a way of life with me. Like a football professional I must stay in shape. You can't film 12 hours daily, fight two lions, make six swings on vines, swim a river and then go out on the town. I don't drink or smoke. What few minutes I have alone I spend sleeping. It doesn't sound glamorous and it isn't.

The injuries have been frequent but I absolutely refuse a stuntman. There are many reasons and most of them involve a little ego.

But there is another factor—the way this character moves. I've developed my own style for the fights with the animals, the swings through the trees, and the audience would pick up the difference in a second if I used a stuntman.

There's a special pleasure, too, to be able to do the stunts but certainly there is some apprehension from time to time.

Sure I've been hurt. I can count 17 times I needed attention and this doesn't count minor cuts and scratches. I recently ran down a hill near Acapulco and cut the bottom of my foot badly but kept on going—this was not ego. My reasons for continuing are very simple.

If I am injured and I know it, and no one else does, I keep quiet. People are concerned, excited and some even get sick. If I keep going it keeps the crew working under very difficult conditions. Once we are finished shooting, then I let the doctor do his work.

There are just no ends of the hazards in this role. There are many enemies of the body when you wear only a loincloth. My feet are hard as leather on the bottom but sharp coral will cut through like a knife.

The animals can be dangerous. When I look at 400 pounds of lion which I'm going to fight I know he can kill me. I've been bitten in the head, legs and feet in animal fights.

I worked as a roughneck in Texas oil fields, boxed, played tennis, rode horses, but there simply is no preparation for this role.

The Cardinals and Reds were tied at 1-1 after nine innings when Ruiz, who does so much bench sitting that he brings along his own cushion, batted for Maloney. Don Sutton scattered seven hits and struck out seven as the Dodgers defeated the Pirates. The victory ended a four game Los Angeles slide.

Jim Lefebvre homered for the Dodgers, and Donn Clendenon connected for Pittsburgh. Gaylord Perry saved Mike McCormick's 10th victory with 2-2-3 innings of airtight relief as the Giants shaded the Mets.

Hal Taner drove in San Francisco's winning run with a two out single in the seventh and then Perry bailed McCormick out of a jam by getting Tommy Davis to rap into an inning ending double play in the bottom of the seventh. Shoddy Houston fielding led to two of Philadelphia's three runs against the Astros as Rick Wise with ninth inning help from Dick Hall, won his third game. Wise drove in a run with a fourth inning single and successive errors on the hit by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar and Ed Mathews allowed another Philadelphia run to score. Rusty Staub misplayed Bobby Wine's fifth inning fly ball into a triple, leading to the Phillies' final run.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Ron Ely is the latest in a long line of actors and athletes who have won fame and fortune swinging from vines and making jungle calls as "Tarzan." A lot of viewers regard the NBC series as amusing and in the camp category, but Ely is a serious young actor and treats his assignment as if it were Shakespeare. And besides, that's blood, not ketchup he's been spilling for his art.

By RON ELY
For Cynthia Lowry
MEXICO CITY (AP)—I have been asked if I set out to prove something when I accepted the television role of Tarzan.

Yes, that "Tarzan" is a role an actor can play. We work six and often seven days a week and have been keeping this pace up since January 1965 when we started filming in Brazil.

What I'm doing taxes me and challenges me. The day-after-day work is hard but if you have a pride in the business and are hammering out a product frequently from your own blood, sometimes it is very satisfying.

I've never seen one of the shows and don't know when I will. There just isn't time. We're moving constantly from Mexico City to Acapulco, Guatemala, then back to Mexico City.

It has become a way of life with me. Like a football professional I must stay in shape. You can't film 12 hours daily, fight two lions, make six swings on vines, swim a river and then go out on the town. I don't drink or smoke. What few minutes I have alone I spend sleeping. It doesn't sound glamorous and it isn't.

The injuries have been frequent but I absolutely refuse a stuntman. There are many reasons and most of them involve a little ego.

But there is another factor—the way this character moves. I've developed my own style for the fights with the animals, the swings through the trees, and the audience would pick up the difference in a second if I used a stuntman.

There's a special pleasure, too, to be able to do the stunts but certainly there is some apprehension from time to time.

Sure I've been hurt. I can count 17 times I needed attention and this doesn't count minor cuts and scratches. I recently ran down a hill near Acapulco and cut the bottom of my foot badly but kept on going—this was not ego. My reasons for continuing are very simple.

If I am injured and I know it, and no one else does, I keep quiet. People are concerned, excited and some even get sick. If I keep going it keeps the crew working under very difficult conditions. Once we are finished shooting, then I let the doctor do his work.

There are just no ends of the hazards in this role. There are many enemies of the body when you wear only a loincloth. My feet are hard as leather on the bottom but sharp coral will cut through like a knife.

The animals can be dangerous. When I look at 400 pounds of lion which I'm going to fight I know he can kill me. I've been bitten in the head, legs and feet in animal fights.

I worked as a roughneck in Texas oil fields, boxed, played tennis, rode horses, but there simply is no preparation for this role.

Israeli Gives Version Of Liberty Torpedoing

EDITOR'S NOTE: On the morning of June 8—the fourth day of the Arab-Israeli war—the U.S. Navy communications ship Liberty was lying off the Egyptian coast when it was attacked by Israeli jets and torpedo boats. Thirty-four U.S. seamen were killed and about 75 injured. An Israeli naval reservist, Micha Limor, was aboard one of the torpedo boats that attacked the Liberty. He tells the graphic details in this story written especially for The Associated Press.

By MICHA LIMOR
Written for The Associated Press

TEL AVIV (AP) — The torpedo boats were ready for firing when our three Israeli torpedo boats zeroed in on the gray ship moving slowly on a southeasterly course off El Arish.

At that tense moment, not one of us on those torpedo boats could have suspected that this was the beginning of an incident which was to cause a long drawn-out international wrangle.

On June 8, the sun was already high in the sky when we received notification of an unidentified sailing vessel some 12 miles off the El Arish coast, suspected of being an enemy craft.

Within moments, the face of our torpedo boat changed. Sailors took their positions, engines were revived up, and in five minutes we were moving out in formation, torpedo boat after torpedo boat, toward the deep sea.

We spotted the objective once on the radar screen. She was moving on a steady course, southeast at about 10 knots. We sailed toward the objective at an increased speed, looking at her through binoculars in an effort to identify the vessel.

Two of our planes flew over our heads a few minutes afterward. We saw them circle the ship several times, and then dive into the attack.

They spat two rockets into the gray ship, and plumes of smoke rose from her. Then the two jets headed away toward the coast.

About 2,000 yards from the ship, a strange spectacle met our eyes. The high masts and the many weird antenna showed that this was a warship. The side of the vessel was blotted out by smoke, and apart from three numbers along her side, which meant nothing to us, we could not discern a thing.

We could see no flag on the mast, nor was anyone to be seen on the decks and bridge.

For some, this can mean only two things: it was either a ghost ship or an enemy ship. To us — who do not believe in ghosts — it was clear that this was the enemy.

We spent several minutes trying to contact the ship and demanding identification. We tried by radio and by helicopter, in accordance with internationally accepted methods. But she gave no answer. It also seemed that she had managed to control the fires and continued on a stable course.

It was decided to pass by her in battle formation and demand identification by firing across her bow. So we moved past at a tremendous speed, firing across the empty bridge and the bow. Suddenly a sailor appeared in view and started firing at us with a heavy machine gun from the bridge. We took the challenge and directed cannon against him. A moment later he fell, together with the machine gun.

Thus there was no doubt that we were faced by the enemy.

The prolonged refusal to identify herself, the absence of any flag, the shooting at us, and above all the weird contraptions on the ship left us without doubt.

We wanted to make the ship surrender without sinking her. Once again we circled the vessel in battle formation, firing again and again. This had no effect. No one appeared. No one reacted. The shells caused little damage to the hull and the ship proceeded on its way.

The order was given to prepare for a torpedo attack.

We drew up along the left side of the boat and advanced at full battle speed.

One of the torpedoes hit the boat amidships. There followed an enormous explosion and a huge water spout.

And then fires broke out — the boat leaned sideways as if about to sink. We waited for survivors as is customary for seamen — whether friend or enemy. But no one appeared on deck.

Suddenly something fell into the sea. One of our formation approached and picking it up from the waters found it to be a rubber lifeboat with the lettering "U.S. Navy."

That was the very first sign of identification.

A moment later there arrived on the scene the helicopter that was to have picked up prisoners. He hovered over the boat and then signaled us: "They are raising the American flag."

It was crystal clear we had hit friends.

Dozens of shells, rockets and torpedoes were needed to drag a sign of identity from them, said one of my seamen who, like the rest of his mates, was bitterly upset at this surprising turn of events.

At the same time, it turned out later shore emplacements also learned that the attacked vessel was the American intelligence boat Liberty.

We received orders directly from the officer commanding the navy to give all necessary help. So we approached the Liberty and offered help, shouting through a loudspeaker.

Then an officer appeared for the first time on the bridge and screamed "Go to hell!" It seems they didn't want strangers aboard.

Learning they did not need aid, we left. And the Liberty returned to its regular operation. It seemed any other ship would have sunk.

Zoo Officials Have Hopes for Whooping Cranes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Now both Rosie the whooping crane and her mate Crip, are model expectant parents and zoo officials hope the marriage will yield two infant birds of a rare species.

Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, said Wednesday Rosie's two eggs may hatch this weekend.

Crip and Rosie were mated last year. Rosie laid eggs on June 7 and 9.

There were 45 cranes left in the wild, Stark said, when officials counted them last spring. He said there are 12 more in captivity.

Daytime Burglary Probed by Police

Circleville Police are investigating the first daytime breaking and entering case in recent history of the city, according to Chief Robert Temple.

The incident occurred between 2 and 4 p. m. Wednesday at the Guest House on Franklin St. The burglary was discovered by Robert Kibler of the Guest House.

According to the report on file at police headquarters, the intruders tore the front off the center desk to get at a money drawer. The money drawer was locked, police said, but was forced open and $130 taken.

Police said the office door was not locked.

Al Jordan Found Shot to Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Al Jordan, 50, well known as a trombonist with nationally known orchestras and the first husband of film star Doris Day, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Police said he apparently had shot himself with a .38 caliber gun.

Jordan first met Miss Day when he was playing in this area with Barney Rapp's orchestra. He later played for Gene Krupa and the Dorsey brothers. Miss Day is a Cincinnati native.

Israeli Gives Version Of Liberty Torpedoing

EDITOR'S NOTE: On the morning of June 8—the fourth day of the Arab-Israeli war—the U.S. Navy communications ship Liberty was lying off the Egyptian coast when it was attacked by Israeli jets and torpedo boats. Thirty-four U.S. seamen were killed and about 75 injured. An Israeli naval reservist, Micha Limor, was aboard one of the torpedo boats that attacked the Liberty. He tells the graphic details in this story written especially for The Associated Press.

By MICHA LIMOR
Written for The Associated Press

TEL AVIV (AP) — The torpedo boats were ready for firing when our three Israeli torpedo boats zeroed in on the gray ship moving slowly on a southeasterly course off El Arish.

At that tense moment, not one of us on those torpedo boats could have suspected that this was the beginning of an incident which was to cause a long drawn-out international wrangle.

On June 8, the sun was already high in the sky when we received notification of an unidentified sailing vessel some 12 miles off the El Arish coast, suspected of being an enemy craft.

Within moments, the face of our torpedo boat changed. Sailors took their positions, engines were revived up, and in five minutes we were moving out in formation, torpedo boat after torpedo boat, toward the deep sea.

We spotted the objective once on the radar screen. She was moving on a steady course, southeast at about 10 knots. We sailed toward the objective at an increased speed, looking at her through binoculars in an effort to identify the vessel.

Two of our planes flew over our heads a few minutes afterward. We saw them circle the ship several times, and then dive into the attack.

They spat two rockets into the gray ship, and plumes of smoke rose from her. Then the two jets headed away toward the coast.

About 2,000 yards from the ship, a strange spectacle met our eyes. The high masts and the many weird antenna showed that this was a warship. The side of the vessel was blotted out by smoke, and apart from three numbers along her side, which meant nothing to us, we could not discern a thing.

We could see no flag on the mast, nor was anyone to be seen on the decks and bridge.

For some, this can mean only two things: it was either a ghost ship or an enemy ship.

To us — who do not believe in ghosts — it was clear that this was the enemy.

We spent several minutes trying to contact the ship and demanding identification. We tried by radio and by helicopter, in accordance with internationally accepted methods. But she gave no answer. It also seemed that she had managed to control the fires and continued on a stable course.

It was decided to pass by her in battle formation and demand identification by firing across her bow. So we moved past at a tremendous speed, firing across the empty bridge and the bow. Suddenly a sailor appeared in view and started firing at us with a heavy machine gun from the bridge. We took the challenge and directed cannon against him. A moment later he fell, together with the machine gun.

Thus there was no doubt that we were faced by the enemy.

The prolonged refusal to identify herself, the absence of any flag, the shooting at us, and above all the weird contraptions on the ship left us without doubt.

We wanted to make the ship surrender without sinking her. Once again we circled the vessel in battle formation, firing again and again. This had no effect. No one appeared. No one reacted. The shells caused little damage to the hull and the ship proceeded on its way.

The order was given to prepare for a torpedo attack.

We drew up along the left side of the boat and advanced at full battle speed.

One of the torpedoes hit the boat amidships. There followed an enormous explosion and a huge water spout.

And then fires broke out — the boat leaned sideways as if about to sink. We waited for survivors as is customary for seamen — whether friend or enemy. But no one appeared on deck.

Suddenly something fell into the sea. One of our formation approached and picking it up from the waters found it to be a rubber lifeboat with the lettering "U.S. Navy."

That was the very first sign of identification.

A moment later there arrived on the scene the helicopter that was to have picked up prisoners. He hovered over the boat and then signaled us: "They are raising the American flag."

It was crystal clear we had hit friends.

Dozens of shells, rockets and torpedoes were needed to drag a sign of identity from them, said one of my seamen who, like the rest of his mates, was bitterly upset at this surprising turn of events.

At the same time, it turned out later shore emplacements also learned that the attacked vessel was the American intelligence boat Liberty.

We received orders directly from the officer commanding the navy to give all necessary help. So we approached the Liberty and offered help, shouting through a loudspeaker.

Then an officer appeared for the first time on the bridge and screamed "Go to hell!"

It seems they didn't want strangers aboard.

Learning they did not need aid, we left. And the Liberty returned to its regular operation. It seemed any other ship would have sunk.

Zoo Officials Have Hopes for Whooping Cranes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Now both Rosie the whooping crane and her mate Crip, are model expectant parents and zoo officials hope the marriage will yield two infant birds of a rare species.

Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, said Wednesday Rosie's two eggs may hatch this weekend.

Crip and Rosie were mated last year. Rosie laid eggs on June 7 and 9.

There were 45 cranes left in the wild, Stark said, when officials counted them last spring. He said there are 12 more in captivity.

Daytime Burglary Probed by Police

Circleville Police are investigating the first daytime breaking and entering case in recent history of the city, according to Chief Robert Temple.

The incident occurred between 2 and 4 p. m. Wednesday at the Guest House on Franklin St. The burglary was discovered by Robert Kibler of the Guest House.

According to the report on file at police headquarters, the intruders tore the front off the center desk to get at a money drawer. The money drawer was locked, police said, but was forced open and $130 taken.

Police said the office door was not locked.

Al Jordan Found Shot to Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Al Jordan, 50, well known as a trombonist with nationally known orchestras and the first husband of film star Doris Day, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Police said he apparently had shot himself with a .38 caliber gun.

Jordan first met Miss Day when he was playing in this area with Barney Rapp's orchestra. He later played for Gene Krupa and the Dorsey brothers. Miss Day is a Cincinnati native.
